Marshall Islands Attack In Fifth Day With No Large Counter-Attack

FALL OF KWAJALEIN IS BELIEVED NEAR

By CLINTON GREEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 4.—Japanese losses at the unprecedented rate of 46 to 1 were suffered by the enemy in the battle of the Marshall Islands today.

While tank-paced troops of the United States Army Seventh Division drove across Kwajalein Island under cover of a sea and air barrage and against crumbling Japanese resistance, first casualty figures from the embattled islands indicated proportionate enemy losses without a parallel in this war.

Of the estimated 2,000 Japanese defenders on Kwajalein Island, an official statement disclosed, at least 1,250 have been killed. Against this high figure, American losses stand at 27 American soldiers slain on Kwajalein, 190 wounded and 9 missing—a ratio of more than 46 to 1.

Attention On Kwajalein

Attention was focussed on Kwajalein Island on the southern fringe of the atoll as the Marshalls battle roared into ths fifth day with no sizeable enemy counter-attack yet reported.

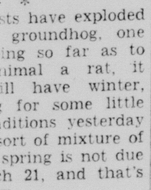

Meanwhile, a front dispatch disclosed that more than 72 hours ago

Marshalls Strategically Of Great Value To Allies

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Noted Military Analyst)
(Written Especially for I. N. S.)

IDFMRK, Feb. 4—(INS)—The first amphibious assault of World War Two against territory belonging to the Japanese Empire has commenced in a manner which is a complete demonstration of the perfect coordination and synchronization among air, land, and sea units, as well as of the long tireless preparation of the United States armed forces under Admiral Nimitz' command.

Long Way To Go

From the Marshalls however we still have a long way to go. It is well to bear in mind that the Japanese have a north-south line of island outposts which is the extreme eastern edge of their perimeter of defense. That line commences in the south at Rabaul and Northern Bougainville; thence northeastward to the Marshalls, which are approximately the center of that line; then north to Wake, and thence northwestward to the Japanese home islands.

When we capture the Marshall Islands, it will not be a vital strategic defeat to Japan. They are merely one of the most advanced Nipponese outposts positions. It will however be a vital blow to the pride of the Nipponese war lords,

German Raiders In Two Attempts To Bomb London

Air Raid Efforts Made By Nazis Eight Hours Apart During Night

ALLIED BOMBERS HIT GERMANY AGAIN

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 4—Western Germany was bombarded for the third successive night last night by speedy British Mosquito planes, the air ministry announced today, while Nazi raiders stabbed twice at London.

Royal Air Force craft also laid mines in Nazi-controlled waters. None of the British craft was lost.

The two attempted strikes against the British capital came eight hours apart, one about 9 p. m., last night and the second at 5 a. m., this morning.

Few Reach London

Four of the German raiders were knocked down over England and a fifth, a Junkers 188, was shot down as it sought to land at its home airdrome in France by a Canadian intruder plane.

Only a few German raiders managed to penetrate to the greater London area while others struck at points in East Anglia and Southeast England. The nazi craft dropped incendiaries mainly and these were put out hurriedly by air raid precaution crews. Some casualties and damage were reported.

About 70 German planes in all were estimated to have crossed the English coast in the two darkness assaults which came as a weak reply to the large-scale American bombardment of Wilhelmshaven and a

Bombing Attack On Paramushiru By U. S. Reported

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Another night bombing attack by American planes from the Aleutians against Japanese positions on Paramushiru in the Kuriles was announced today by the navy.

The latest assault was carried out on the night of Feb. 2-3 by two navy Catalinas but results were not observed. No enemy planes were encountered and the U. S. bombers returned safely.

The latest assault brought to nine the number of bombing attacks by American planes against Japanese bases in the Kuriles which guard the northeastern approaches to the enemy's mainland.

Bombers Collide; Thirteen Killed

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 4.—(INS)—The Army Air Forces today announced the names of eight of 13 airmen killed yesterday when two twin-engined bombers from Barksdale Field, Shreveport, collided in midair and crashed in flames near Garland City, Ark.

Witnesses of the crash were quoted as saying the planes were flying in a formation of eight when one of them appeared to rise suddenly into a ship above it.

The eight victims identified included:

Second Lieut. Charles H. Tarr, pilot Mount Vernon, O., and Second Lieut. William L. Wilson, bombardier-navigator, Martins Ferry, O.

Huge Force Used Saved Many Lives

Rear Adm. Turner Pleased With Swift Progress In Marshalls

ATTACK SHOULD BE LESSON TO ENEMY

By LEIF ERICKSON
Representing the Combined Allied Press
(Distributed By I. N. S.)

ABOARD JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FLAGSHIP IN KWAJALEIN LAGOON, Marshall Islands, Feb. 3.—(Delayed)—Rear Adm. Richmond K. Turner, glowingly pleased with the swift, smooth prosecution of the Marshall islands invasion, said today "our gains are important and they haven't cost us much yet."

The sun-bronzed admiral is in command of all amphibious operations in the assault on Kwajalein atoll, just as he was in earlier successful American operations against Guadalcanal and New Georgia in the Solomons and the invasion of the Gilbert Islands.

In two days fighting against the Japanese, made groggy by terrific air and sea bombardment, the fourth marine division commanded by Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt secured Roi and Namur, key islands in the northern part of the atoll.

Mopping Up

The army's seventh division under Maj. Gen. Charles H. Corlett was mopping up the 2½ mile long Kwajalein, the atoll's largest island in the south. The Japanese were pressed back onto the northeastern part of the island. Field artillery and destroyers helped with the mopping up operation.

"Maybe we had too mnay men and too many ships for this job," Turner said. "But I prefer to do things that way. It was many lives saved for us, and it should be a discouragement to Japs everywhere to know that when we hit we really hit hard and for keeps."

Our casualties ashore have been extremely light through invasion assaults of the first three days, much lighter than the troop commanders expected. Not a ship has been lost.

On the second day Turner ordered all troop transports and most of the supporting warships inside the huge lagoon, so that the surrounding reef might serve as a protection against Japanese submarines.

The enemy has not been able to attempt a plane attack on our amphibious task forces since we left our home port.

Mustering-Out Bill Is Approved

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—President Roosevelt today signed the mustering-out bill providing payments to demobilized servicemen and said it was an "important step in the program of demobilization".

Mr. Roosevelt also called for enactment of still other measures recommended in his broad program for rehabilitation of men and women in the armed services.

NEARING HALF WAY

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—(INS)—War bond sales in the 19-county Fort Pitt area moved within striking distance of the fourth war loan's half-way mark today as the daily quota of $13,021,000 was more than doubled yesterday to reach a total of $143,100,000.

Sales of the "peoples bonds"—series E—however still lagged seriously below the daily quota of $3,200,000 with only $2,500,000 reported to give a total of $36,100,000 against the assigned $78,454,000.

NEARLY HALF WAY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 4.—(INS)—Pennsylvania reached 44.7 per cent of its $423,000,000 individual sales quota in the fourth war loan campaign today, as sales mounted to $189,212,279.

Corporate sales soared to $463,095,937, or 83.4 per cent of the $550,000,000 goal, State Chairman G Ruhland Rebmann, Jr., reported.

Counter Thrusts By Germans Are Halted By Allies

Initial Phase Of Nazi Counter Offensive In Area South Of Rome Repulsed

ALLIED BATTLE TO CAPTURE CASSINO

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Feb. 4.—A heavy toll of dead was exacted from the Germans today by Allied Fifth Army units which crushed the initial phase of the long-expected Nazi counter-offensive against the beachhead area south of Rome.

Official announcement that four counter-attacks in the beachhead area were repulsed came as American troops and tank units loosed a major assault to blast the Germans from the fortified bastion of Cassino, 79 miles below Rome.

Desperate German counterblows also were struck north of Cassino in an effort to stem American and French forces which smashed the Gustav line and threaten Cassino from the rear, and on this front the Nazis also were repulsed.

Counter-Attacks Fail

On the beachhead area the Germans launched three counter-attacks, supported by artillery, north of the village of Parighone. Parighone lies seven miles southwest of Cisterna on the road running from Campomorto to Campoleone.

The fourth attack was launched against the Americans west of Cisterna. The Yanks now are mopping up battered Nazi strong points west of Cisterna.

(A Cairo radio broadcast said that Allied tanks and infantry had smashed their way into the first defense ring guarding Cisterna. The Germans were said to be withdrawing to the inner part of the town along the ancient Appian Way.)

At least 140 German prisoners were taken in the struggle around the beachhead.

Nazi Air Activity

Once more German aircraft became increasingly active over the beachhead area to support the counter-blows by Nazi ground forces.

Some of the stubbornest fighting of the entire campaign was taking

Senator Lodge Quits Senate For U. S. Army

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R) Mass., today resigned from the senate to return to duty in the army in which he holds the rank of major. He is 41 years old.

Lodge announced his decision to return to active duty in a letter to the president of the senate.

In his letter, Lodge said the fact that the United States is entering into large scale ground fighting had brought him to the definite conviction that he must serve as a combat officer. He added that he expected to serve overseas.

The brief note of resignation was hand-written. It had been reported that Lodge would make a statement to the senate in person but he apparently abandoned this idea.

Buchalter Escapes Chair Temporarily

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, Murder, Inc., kingpin, and two companions escaped the electric chair—at least temporarily—today when New York state was called upon to show cause why there should not be a reargument on the entire case.

Lepke, Emmanuel (Mendy) Weiss and Louis Capone, convicted of the 1936 slaying of Joseph Rosen, Brooklyn candy store proprietor, were scheduled to die in Sing Sing's electric chair on the night of Feb. 10.

But the latest legal action, signed by Chief Judge Irving Lehman of the court of appeals and returnable Feb. 14, called on the state to show cause why, on the basis of new evidence, there should not be a reargument of the case.

Alexishafen Is Heavily Bombed

Twin Base To Jap Stronghold Of Madang Target Of U. S. Raiders

SEVENTY-SEVEN TONS OF EXPLOSIVES STRIKE

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Feb. 4.—A blistering aerial assault on Alexishafen, New Guinea, twin base to the Jap stronghold of Madang, was revealed today in an official communique.

Four-engined heavy American bombers hit the enemy supply base at Alexishafen on the north coast with 77 tons of high explosives.

The mid-day assault, executed with fighter escort, resulted in heavy explosions and caused large fires.

The heavyweight bombardment of Alexishafen was followed by a bombing and strafing raid carried out by attack planes on Enamele and Nebanob missions nearby. These points were plastered with 30 tons of bombs.

Numerous Attacks

Fighter-bombers attacked Bliau, Teterei and other Jap-occupied villages west of American-held Saidor, 57 miles southwest of Madang. Several fires were started.

Over Dutch New Guinea heavy bombers hit Jap supply areas at Sorong.

Medium bombers, escorted by fighters, and other air patrols operating over New Britain Island bombed and strafed coastal targets of opportunity from Rottock Bay to Rein Bay. These aircraft damaged or destroyed a number of Jap barges.

In the Solomons area Allied naval units bombarded Jap shore installations at Buka, at the northern end of Bougainville Island, and in the Mibo river and Choiseul Bay area.

Aerial operations over the Solomons were hampered by adverse weather.

Compromise On Soldier Ballot Plan Expected

House And Senate Take Different Attitude On Vote Proposals

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—A crushing house defeat of administration demands for a 100 per cent federal ballot sent the soldier vote bill to the senate today for an inevitable compromise.

House "states' rights" advocates who led the gruelling 10-hour floor battle against a federal "short" ballot for all members of the armed forces predicted final agreement on 'something like the Ball amendment.'

The Ball proposal, one part of the so-called Taft amendment up for senate consideration today, would permit a federal ballot only for those states which failed to provide adequate absentee voting for all elective offices.

Answer Challenge

Climax of the long night house session was reached when angry Republicans and southern Democrats answered Presirent Roosevelt's challenge to "stand up and be counted" on the federal ballot issue. The coalition which refused

NAMUR ISLAND, Kwajalein Atoll, the Marshalls, Feb. 3.—(Delayed)—Scattered snipers and unseen enemy wounded remain on this shattered, stinking island, but the actual end of sustained combat came at 1 p. m. yesterday in a little corner near the northwest tip of Namur Island as the Marines pressed in for the kill.

Organized enemy resistance was ended, and even the toughened, battle-hardened Marines were disgusted with the task of wiping out Japanese troops who hovered on the borderline of insanity as the result of the Allied bombardment and the ensuing hopeless retreat across the island.

Trapped Germans Fight Desperately Against Russians

Plight Of Ten Divisions Of Nazis West Of Cherkassy Seems Hopeless

ATTEMPTS TO BREAK OUT ARE REPULSED

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Feb. 4.—Russian legions which advanced over piles of German dead and wrecked tanks clashed savagely today at some 150,000 fiercely-resisting Nazis caught in a huge pocket west of Cherkassy in the Dnieper Bend. Front-line dispatches indicated the plight of the enemy was virtually hopeless.

Tank armadas and huge artillery concentrations of the First and Second Ukrainian armies, which formed the iron ring about the hapless Germans, battled ceaselessly at the Nazis. Already the Russians were credited with annihilating some 10,000 of the encircled troops.

Ten Divisions Caught

The trap was snapped on 10 enem divisions when the armies of Gens. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev surged forward in a twin five-day offensive. The Russians overran more than 300 towns and villages, advancing from 30 to 45 miles to join forces in the Zvenigoro-Shpola sector.

According to Pravda, communist party publication, the Soviet advance was made over a path "littered with hundreds of piles of German dead, and twisted wreckage of enemy tanks."

German Vessels Fail In Attempt To Run Blockade

Trapped In South Atlantic By U. S. Warships—Many Prisoners Taken

MUCH BALED RUBBER RECOVERED FOR U. S.

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The Navy disclosed today that three Nazi blockade runners had been sunk by the blazing guns of American warships while sneaking across the south Atlantic with vital war cargoes from Japanese ports.

A large number of prisoners were captured and hundreds of tons of baled rubber were seized after the German ships Burgenland, Rio Grande and Weserland were sunk by the U. S. Cruiser Omaha and the destroyers Somers and Jouett.

The Navy said the Nazi vessels were enroute from Far Eastern Japanese ports with their holds filled "with thousands of tons of rubber, tin, fats and strategic ores."

"A large number of prisoners were picked up following the sinkings," the Navy communique said.

Enemy Vessels Trapped

All three enemy vessels were trapped with 48 hours early in January after Navy patrol planes spotted two of the ships and radioed to war vessels for aid. The German crews attempted to scuttle their vessels.

"Summoned by planes, the Somers found her target in the darkness of early morning, and on identifying the vessel as hostile opened fire with her main battery of five-inch guns.

"The first salvo hit the Weserland, forcing the crew to abandon ship," the announcement added. "The destroyer then sank the vessel after internal explosions were set off by the crew as they left. Survivors were picked up at daylight."

A scouting plane from the Omaha and a lookout on the warship sighted the Rio Grande almost simultaneously.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Allied bombers and fighter squadrons soared out over the continent in strength in daylight today to maintain the relentless bombardment of Nazi-held Europe.

The formations, requiring 90 minutes to pass a given point over the southeast coast of England, swept out toward Europe upon the return of British Mosquito bombers which blasted objectives in Western Germany for the third successive night.

Shortly after the day-raiders went out, the Nazi-operated Danish radio announced it was closing down "for military reasons".

An official statement said that strong formations of American heavy bombers escorted by long-range fighters and supported by R. A. F. and Allied craft had bombed targets in Western Germany.

TOP MILITARY MEN CALL FOR SERVICE LAW

WASHINGTON, Feb 4.—(INS)—Immediate passage of a National Service Act was called for today by America's top military and naval officers.

Demand for such a law and greater sacrifices on the home front were voiced at an American Legion dinner attended by Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, Acting Secretaries of War and Navy Robert P. Patterson and Ralph A. Bard and Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, war shipping administrator.

Admiral King, in outlining the grand strategy of the war, said "we can open throttle wide" against Japan as soon as Germany's defeat becomes imminent and Allied fighting power can be shifted from Europe.

Gen. Marshall said the great battles which are impending will decide the course of civilization and declared that determination is now needed which will "divorce the individual from his own selfish weaknesses and ulterior motices." He told the dinner that American soldiers "must be keenly conscious the full strength of the nation is behind them." Marshall also revealed that more than 2,000 heavy army bombers are aiding the RAF in bombing Nazi Europe.

Calling directly for enactment of a labor draft bill were Patterson, Bard, and Land. Their appeals were echoed by Warren H. Atherton, national Legion commander, who pledged "unremitting support" from two million Legion members and auxiliaries, backed by an "all out fight to put every man, woman and child, every dollar or assets and every pound of productive effort in the service of our country."

it is territory they allegedly have prepared in the past to be impregnable against attack.

Decisive Strategically

However, in the reverse, our victory over the Japanese forces at the Marshalls will be strategically decisive for the Allies, since those islands will provide most valuable advanced air, submarine and naval bases for United States and British armed forces.

The Japanese also have an east-west line of outpost island defenses which are—commencing with the Marshalls, the islands of Jaliut, Wotje, Ponape, Truk, Yap, Palau. That line is allegedly Nippon's defense of her home islands from any attack launched by the Allies from the south. It is more than an outpost line, as most of the islands just mentioned are strong bases.

By our seizure of the Marshalls, Admiral Nimitz's forces are in a position to work straight westward through those island bases of the east-west line directly to the Philippines, or to move northwards towards the recapture of the island of Wake. In other words, the Marshalls are a location of great strategic value to the Allies.

to change house rules to make such a test possible two days earlier, demanded the record vote after killing the Worley federal ballot proposal by a margin of 51 votes.

On a roll call vote of 224 to 168, the states' rights forces defeated their own motion to recommit the state ballot bill of Rep. Rankin (D) Miss.

Their iron control of the house held firm despite temper flareups over the extended session until the Rankin measure, amending an original senate bill was passed by a 328-69 roll call count.

The dramatic house action came after the senate by a 79-13 vote had approved a compromise proposal of Sen. Danaher (R) Conn. The Danaher amendment differs from the Ball plan mainly in that it would give a federal ballot to all servicemen and women outside the United States and to those stationed in this country whose states had not provided absentee local ballots.

Possible Procedure

The Danaher amendment was accepted by Sens. Lucas (D) Ill., and Green (D) R. I., sponsors of the administration senate plan.

The indicated procedure appeared to be that the senate federal ballot supporters would move to concur in the house-approved bill with an amendment such as the Green-Lucas-Danaher proposal and return it to the house for an ultimate compromise in a conference committee.

Among other compromise offers, the house rejected provisions of the Taft amendment when it was put up by Rep. Bates (R) Mass.

In the senate, the amendment bearing the name of Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, and supported by 14 colleagues, was still in the running. Said Taft:

"I think we have a good chance to win. When the authors of the Green-Lucas bill accepted the Danaher amendment they admitted the principle that a state ballot should be supplied over a federal ballot."

NAMUR ISLAND COMBAT AT END

mur and the adjoining Island of Roi were left as a ring of Marine gunfire tightened about their defensive position, which probably was a command post.

Their fight was hopeless from the very beginning, it was a murderous bombardment, then an inevitable retreat in the face of superior Marine fire power. Light mobile artillery, flamethrowers and bazookas thundered and rocked against the crumbling concrete pillboxes and then the Japanese were surrounded.

Most remained in hiding, waiting the end which came quickly in most cases. Only a few tried to break the encirclement and they could not make it.

I was on this battlefield with Capt. Arthur Hanson, Washington, D. C., when the staccato chatter of machine guns and the resonant thumps of Marine mortars died away. For more than four hours I had been dodging sniper bullets as I poked among the ruins, and the silence seemed unnatural.

Some Jap Tricks

In their two-day battle, the Japanese resort to a few of their favorite tactics. During the night, some crawled back into wrecked pillboxes and had to be killed.

The most ambitious maneuver of this kind involved a half dozen riflemen who sneaked into a dugout and harassed rear echelons until an unidentified sergeant walked inside alone with a Garand and killed every living Japanese.

The effect of the bombardment can be appreciated only by seeing for yourself the destruction wrought on the islands of Roi and Namur, blockhouses terrifically battered, gun barrels of the coastal defenses twisted and shattered amidst debris and the dismembered bodies of their crews.

The entire island of Namur was transformed into an inferno. Neat rows of palm trees were mutilated and burned by shells and bombs. Tin-roofed barracks were crumpled and disintegrated. Sturdier buildings were burned, gutting themselves to their concrete framework.

The crowded beaches greatly resemble Coney Island on a hot summer day. There is a display of newly-acquired loot—nearly every other man carries a bottle of sake wine or asahi beer.

Mostly the Marines are sleeping and eating, comparing experiences and wishing they could remove some of the rotting bodies from these islands.

into Estonia, the Red army was reported "almost at the gates of Narva."

While remnants of the nine enemy infantry divisions and one tank division trapped in the Ukraine struggled to break out of the Russian ring, front dispatches said the Soviet tanks and artillery bit deeper into the pocket. In at least one sector, Junkers-52s were reported dropping supplies to troops in the "island," which covered some 1,000 square miles of frozen Steppe and forest land.

On other fronts, meantime, additional Red army columns threatened the Nazis with annihilation or entrapment.

Move Ahead

In the Estonian campaign, one Russian column was moving northwestward from captured Slantsi in a move to cut the railway to Tallinn far behind Narva. Slantsi is 18 miles south of Narva.

Those German troops pocketed in the Cherkassy area, meanwhile, were reported still defiant to Soviet demands that they surrendered However, between the oft-repeated Russian calls for them to lay down their arms, the fire-power of the Nazis seemed to be decreasing both in intensity and duration.

Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin announced the feat in a special order-of-the-day. Last night's regular communique amplified his triumphant announcement saying:

"The enemy is launching desperate attempts to break out of the encirclement but is met by determined resistance and suffers enormous losses."

Some 6 000 of the enemy was annihilated by two Russian units which destroyed huge numbers of Nazi tanks and mobile guns, and captured similar items with "considerable other booty."

Nazis Try To Smash Through

Then, the Germans concentrated "large forces on a narrow sector" and again tried to smash their way through the ever-tightening Russian ring. After a fierce day-long action, the Soviet infantrymen and artillerists "annihilated" about another regiment of Nazis, and destroyed 42 tanks, and other mobile equipment.

The Russian victory which pocketed the Germans in the middle Dnieper area sliced off the base of a huge Nazi salient which had jutted into the Dnieper Bend at Kanev, lying between Cherkassy and Kiev. It likewise threatened the rail junction of Zhmerinka, just beyond the Bug river, and the Odessa-Warsaw railroad system over which most of the traffic for German forces in the lower Ukraine still moves.

Far to the north, armies of the Leningrad fronts threatened other Nazi forces encircles in the forests southwest of captured Lyuban, drove deeper into Estonia, and added to the peril for German troops holding out north and east of embattled Luga.

The triple-pronged Russian drive pointed against the enemy's rail stronghold of Narva, six miles beyond the Estonian frontier, continued to make progress. In this area, the Soviets overran more than 50 towns and villages, including four within the confines of Estonia.

F.D.R. And Willkie Probably Thinking Along Same Lines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—President Roosevelt said today that he and Wendell Willkie have been thinking along parallel lines, in a way, on the need for heavier taxes.

Mr. Roosevelt said Willkie, however, had gone a lot further than he did but that both were thinking about the burdens that the next generation may have to bear.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he didn't have the nerve to ask for the 16 billion dollar tax bill that Willkie has recommended, and thought he had gone pretty far in asking for the 10 billions.

YANKS DRIVING AHEAD STEADILY ON KWAJALEIN

on the second day of the invasion, Rear Admiral Richmond K. Turner commanding the amphibious forces had ordered all troop transports and most of the supporting warships inside the Kwajalein lagoon in order that surrounding reefs would serve to protect them from Japanese submarine attack.

Some 70 miles to the north, Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt's Fourth Marines were set to move from positions on Roi and newly-won Namur islands in a giant nutcracker attack that would place all of strategic Kwajalein atoll in American hands.

The seventh, reinforced since its initial landing on Kwajalein, now holds more than half the two-mile long island. A terrific toll in dead was taken from the Jap garrison by the thunderous bombardment that preceded and ground fighting that followed the invasion.

Of the estimated 2,000 defenders, at least 1250 have been slain at a cost of 27 American soldiers killed, 190 wounded and nine missing—a ratio of more than 46 to 1.

Resistance Continues

"Resistance continues on Kwajalein island," said a grim communique from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, "but we have landed troops and mechanized equipment in force and are proceeding with the annihilation of the enemy."

A spokesman for Admiral Nimitz revealed that the Japs on Kwajalein counter-attacked the night of Feb. 1-2, but were "dispersed with heavy losses to the enemy."

At dawn the next day, the spokesman said, soldiers of the seventh reopened their attacks and continued to make "satisfactory progress."

Their backs to the sea and all hope of escape in that direction cut off by salvos from America's mighty armada, it was apparent that the shattered Jap garrison on Kwajalein faces capture or death. Early crushing of the last enemy resistance was expected to be announced hourly.

Few Jap Prisoners

Only a few Jap prisoners have been taken. Almost crazed by the terrific shelling and bombing, including high explosives from artillery the seventh hauled into position on small islets flanking Kwajalein, these were reported to have expressed their belief Japan has already lost the war.

With Kwajalein island in American hands and marines pushing down from the north, the doom of the entire key atoll is assured. Its possession would give the invaders at least two big airfields and strong bases for an assault against the rest of the Marshall chain.

The leathernecks, who seized Roi at the outer fringe of the 655-mile square atoll, took adjoining Namur island soon thereafter and came into possession of the triple-runway airfield to cover their position and to be used as a striking base in further operations.

Capture of the Roi-Namur sector and the four islets of Gagan, Edjell, Dubuu and Edgijen, cost the marines 100 dead and less than 400 wounded. There was no estimate available of enemy losses in that area nor indication of strength of the initial garrison.

The airfield on Kwajalein, not yet used by the Japs as far as is known, will also be used by American planes once it can be put in condition.

Key To Marshalls

As Kwajalein island is the key to the atoll bearing that name, so is the atoll the key to possession of the Marshalls. Initial landings at opposite ends of the atoll, following a sea and air pounding that reduced to rubble the defenses the Japs have spent 20 years and millions of yen in perfecting, came as a complete surprise.

By-passing eastern defenses of the chain such as Wotje and Maleolap, as Kiska in the Aleutians was by-passed to take Attu, army troops and marines struck where they were least expected and sliced directly at the heart of Nippon's eastern wall.

In view of Admiral Nimitz's initial communique on the invasion setting the goal, as "capture of the Marshall islands", it was apparent that once Kwajalein falls moves against other atolls in the chain will not be long in coming.

Success in that action would move America's Pacific defenses from Pearl Harbor more than 2,000 miles to the west and give our forces a striking base against Truk, 1,646 miles westward, the Philippines and Japan itself.

Admiral Nimitz, in a communique last night, announced an attack by bombers of the seventh army air force against a new Marshalls target and additional strikes against other bases in the chain.

Rongelap, approximately 125 miles northwest of Kwajalein, was raided Wednesday by Liberators which hammered ground installations with nearly eight tons of bombs.

RENT CONTROL BOARD IS HIT BY OWNER OF NEW APARTMENT

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 4.—(INS)—The owner of a "beautiful, newly-furnished" apartment in nearby Wesleyville took time out today to hit federal rent control authorities right where it hurt most.

Outside the apartment, the owner posted a large sign on which was painted:

"Notice: This beautiful, new furnished apartment will not be for rent for the duration due to unfair rental set by the rent control board."

PROPAGANDA CLAIM

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The German high command today broadcast a thoroughly unsubstantiated propaganda claim alleging American and British setbacks at the Nettuno-Anzio bridgehead in western Italy.

A communique read over all Nazi stations said:

"Major enemy forces at the beachhead have been encircled in a concentric counterattack.

"(Allied) attacks made to relieve the encircled forces were repelled."

COUNTER THRUSTS BY GERMANS ARE HALTED BY ALLIES

place at the northern end of Cassino. The action was particularly fierce three miles northwest of Cassino, where American units were knocking out Nazi pillboxes one by one.

The communique issued from headquarters of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson said that the fighting on the outskirts of Cassino was heavy.

Advanced elements of the Yank troops were reported in front dispatches to be battling the Nazis from house to house to blast the enemy from hedgehog positions.

Tank clashes were frequent in the suburbs of Cassino as American armor paved the way for columns of attacking infantry.

Battle Near Cassino

North of Cassino, where American and French units of the Fifth Army scored a break-through in the Gustav Line, the Germans launched a series of bitter counter-attacks, but all of these enemy blows were repulsed.

American and British troops on the Anzio-Nettuno bridgehead front south of Rome continued to improve their positions despite the mounting German resistance there.

Troops of the British Eighth army on the Adriatic side of the main trans-peninsular front moved forward to occupy the village of Torricella.

A counter-offensive launched by the Germans against the Allied Rome beachhead was repulsed with heavy losses to the Nazis.

The Germans also launched a counter-blow against American forces west of Cisterna and there too, were beaten back with losses.

Constant aerial patrols were maintained by the Allies over both battle areas.

Weather Unfavorable

The weather again limited operations in the air, but Allied bombers and fighter aircraft were able to hammer rail facilities at several points. They struck at Stimigliano, northeast of Rome, Sulmona, north of the Eighth army front, and Manopello.

Between Sulmona and Rome motor and rail traffic was attacked by fighters and fighter-bombers.

In all aerial actions five Nazi planes were destroyed. Two Allied craft were reported missing.

Latest reports from the main Fifth army front said that Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American infantrymen surged into Cassino to engage the Nazis in gruelling street fighting. The Yanks forced their way from house to house to oust the Nazis from strong points.

One correspondent at the front described the new American assault as a deadly game of hide-and-seek with the Americans having to fight their way almost from room to room.

"I won't tell a soul," says she, and she doesn't. But in search for more information, she asks prying questions that spill the beans.

closed to investigate the stranger she burst into smoke and flame, the result of demolition charges placed by the crew," the Navy related.

Destroy Blockade Runner

Then the two American warships opened fire with six and five inch guns and hastened the destruction of the blockade runner.

"On the following day the Omaha and the Jouett found the Burgenland," the Navy reported. "As the U. S. warships approached, a similar scene to that enacted by the Rio Grande took place. However, destruction was completed as in the former case by shell fire."

The Navy reported that hundreds of tons of baled rubber "found floating amid the debris after the sinkings were recovered and are now on their way to the United States."

Biggest Prize

The Bergenland was a 7,320 ton vessel and the Rio Grande was listed at 6,062 tons while the tonnage of the Weserland was not available. It was the biggest prize trapped by American warships in such a short space of time since the outbreak of war.

The action recalled that the Omaha on Nov. 6, 1941, captured the German ship Odenwald while the vessel was masquerading in the south Atlantic as an American merchant ship.

The destroyer Jouett was one of the vessels that previously helped sink a Nazi sup in the Atlantic and assisted in the capture of a large part of the crew. That action was announced in July, 1943.

Skipper of the Omaha in the recent action was Capt. Charles E. Leffler, Jr., of Miami, Fla.

Comdr. John C. Parham, Jr., of Tuscaloosa, Ala., commanded the Jouett during the action in January. Skipper of the Somers was Comdr. William C. Hughes Jr., of Oklahoma City, Okla.

GERMAN RAIDERS IN TWO ATTEMPTS TO BOMB LONDON

series of shattering daylight assaults by both American and British craft on northern France. Less than a score of German planes came anywhere near the London area.

Enemy Activity Slight

An official statement termed the enemy activity "slight." In the German sorties before midnight parts of southeast England and the greater London area were under assault. In the early hours of today a small number of German aircraft were over East Anglia, southeast England and the London area. The few which flew inland dropped bombs at a number of unidentified points.

British defense forces downed at least four of the enemy raiders.

The first alert in the British capital, the 780th of the war, was sounded about 9 p. m. and the all-clear came an hour later. The second blast of warning sirens was heard about 5 a. m. and the capital was kept on the alert for an hour and one-half.

Both attacks amounted only to brief hit and run affairs, with few raiders actually penetrating to the capital area. They scooted off like scalded cats in the face of heavy anti-aircraft barrages.

It was apparent from the longer heavier and sustained gunfire in the morning attack that the Nazi air force employed slightly more planes than it did in the first raid.

British night fighters drove off several would-be raiders over the southeast coast and forced them back across the English Channel before the Nazis had an opportunity to loose any bombs.

DARING STROKE AGAINST JAPAN

INVASION of the Marshall Islands by American Marines and infantry is a solemn warning to Tojo and Hirohito that the hour of doom approaches.

For the first time we have set about taking control of territory held by the Japs since before Pearl Harbor. It is likely to be a hard and costly fight because the Marshalls, unlike the Gilberts, reportedly have been strongly fortified by the Japs—in violation of their League of Nations mandate—for the past 20 years.

The importance of this blow at the heart of the Marshalls can't be over-estimated. Seizure of these islands would hasten the fall of Truk, and speed our march to Tokio.

Furthermore, the invasion of Japan's highly prized and well-defended Marshalls represents a quick and decisive reaction by the United States to the official account of Japan's shocking brutality to American and Filipino war prisoners.

Secretary of State Hull's record of 88 futile protests to the Tokio government on Japan's cruel treatment of captives proves without question that Japanese bestiality can't be wiped out by diplomatic procedures. Only guns and bombs, and plenty of them, can end Japanese barbarism.

By striking at the Marshall Islands, while bombing Rabaul and gradually rolling the Japs back in New Guinea and other Pacific areas, our gallant soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen are driving toward final victory. We stay-at-homes must back them up with war bonds, work and prayer.

America is still fighting on the rim of Japan's conquest, it should be remembered, and the path is hard and long from the bitterly contested beachheads in the Marshalls to the war lords' dens in Tokio. But our course is set. We are on our way.

DROUTH WORRIES

Marvin Jones, food administrator, warns that by the end of this crop year America's wheat reserve will have fallen below the danger point, despite probable imports of 175,000,000 bushels. Coincident with this warning comes reports of subnormal moisture conditions over a large part of the Midwest.

Half of the winter wheat crop in Nebraska has been lost and unless the moisture deficiency is made up before July, officials say summer crops will be far behind schedule. Minnesota's crop situation is critical. Northern and western Illinois have had only a 50 per cent autumn and winter rainfall.

Iowa, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana report that deficiencies can be made up by a few good rains. The drouth of Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas has been broken by heavy winter snows in most areas but there are feed shortages and a deficiency of livestock water on some ranges.

This coming spring will be viewed most anxiously by those in charge of food production. Vastly expanded acreages of row crops to replace abandoned wheat will be difficult because of manpower and equipment shortages. But such planting is possible and will be carried out if the moisture arrives in time.

A dry spring would be a tragedy on the food front that might have an important bearing on the length of the war.

GLOBAL AIR TRANSPORT

The United States has always been a nation of movement—transportation. In the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812, American sailing ships made historic records. Later came our development of the clipper sailing ships, the steamship, and the steam locomotives and the railroad train; then came the automobile.

The first World War saw the practical application of the next great means of transportation—aviation. Its progress has outdone a tale by Horatio Alger.

When the second World War broke, three factors were predominant—production, transportation and speed. Failure of either meant failure for all. Our airplanes stepped in with speed before undreamed of. They spanned continents and oceans in hours.

Each war, from the day of the Revolution, has promoted transportation and speed. After the present war, the story can be told of the advancements in our air arm of transportation which will help America hold her rightful place in global air transport.

American air lines are already planning to invest hundreds of millions of dollars in the newest type of equipment for service at home and abroad, thus providing work and opportunities for thousands of fighting men when they come home.

FORTY-TWO WAYS TO PREVENT FIRE

The National Board of Fire Underwriters, New York, has published a booklet entitled "42 Ways to Prevent Fire." Untold tragedy and destruction could be avoided if a copy of this booklet could be placed in every home, and the lessons it contains put into practice.

The booklet groups the most common hazards under general headings such as Heating Plant, Spontaneous Ignition, Misuse of Electricity, and Cleaning With Gasoline. Heating plants rank high as a source of fire destruction. The same is true of electricity. As the booklet observes: "With something over 70,000 electrical fires a year in our dwellings—over 90 per cent of them due to the abuse or misuse of equipment—it behooves us to remember that electricity is a good servant but a bad master. Sub-standard installations, worn extension cords, defective appliances, and lines over-fused and overloaded are old stories to firemen.

"Monkeying with fuses is another frequent cause of grief in the home. Too many people fail to realize that the fuse is the safety valve of the electrical system, intentionally made weaker than the wire so that it will blow out first in case of an overload." Remember this if you start to tuck a penny behind that blown out fuse.

Spontaneous ignition is also a prime cause of fire destruction. A pound of flour dust can produce an explosion powerful enough to fling an automobile over the roof of a seven-story building. And when a couple of engineers undertook to run an automobile engine with cornstarch instead of gasoline, they got along fine—until one of the pistons was blown through the roof. Such is the power of dust!

Forces of death and destruction are latent in every home. The only way to protect your family against them is to know about them. The time to start learning is now.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FOSTER CARE OF CHILD

What you read from the following letter might also apply to many other working mothers, or to any other mother who feels she has hardly done by her child as he deserves. It is a sample of how a child cared for most of the time by some one else, behaves at his worst in the occastional presence of his mother.

"My problem concerns a boy two years old whom I am taking care of. I have had him since September. The mother and father are separated. The father has never inquired about him but sends the money for his keep. The mother is in every evening and on Sunday.

"The child has had no training. He is fine through the day but the minute his mother comes in, he fusses, cries, screams, kicks—she takes him up—he cries—she puts him down—he cries. He has tantrums in his bed as long as she is here. He keeps the whole household in an uproar evenings. What should I do? Through the day, I set him on a chair for a certain length of time. It works. When his mother is here he gets right down, kicks and screams. He is unmanageable in her presence.

Stubborn Child

"He is stubborn, strong and healthy. I have four grown children of my own and have had experience with different temperaments but I'm stumped now. This child needs love and everything else. The mother is doing war work. She is 20 years old. Should I take full control of him? A self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed."

As I replied, I don't see how you can get anywhere unless you can persuade that mother to make clear to the child that you are entirely responsible for his conduct and should punish him as you see fit. She might impress her word on the youngster by leaving always when he fails to obey you. Let me urge here that any mother who has her child in the care of another person most of the time, leave his discipline solely to that person or discipline him herself exactly as the caretaker would.

Mother's Visits

The visits should deal chiefly with reading to or with the child, answering his questions, conversing companionably and affectionately with him, and doing things with him for your mutual amusement. My special bulletin, "Suggestions To Working Mothers," may be had for postage by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. In a second such envelope, also my bulletin, "How To Teach Tot Meaning of No."

By the way, the person caring for a young child in his mother's absence, should be urged to read to him a great deal, at as early age as possible, to encourage him to create with blocks and other toys, crayons, paper and the like. Also the caretaker should be induced to resort to chair-sitting punishment when it is needed by the tot. This punishment is effective and safe. Many mothers who would not be happy to delegate power to spank the youngsters, could delegate chair-sitting punishment with more confidence and peace of mind.

PAYING GIRL'S WAY

"Recently on a train trip of a few hours, I met a young lady who lives near me and whom I know rather well. Although we have never yet had any dates, we have met several times at friends' homes. While on this short train trip, I offered to pay for two magazines she purchased from the vendor and to pay for her lunch. Both times she quickly got out her own money and insisted on paying for these items herself. Don't you think this was odd? I always thought it preferable for a man to pay these expenses even though he and the girl meet accidentally. Please straighten me out. —Bob.

Answer: You are a gentleman of the old school, Bob. And I admire you for offering to take over these expenditures, which gesture was, however, unnecessary. Girls are more independent than they used to be and in many cases they make as much or more than the men they know. Whatever the decision on the payment, there should be no embarrassing argument over it. If the man offers to pay and the girl politely refuses to accept his offer, he should drop the subject and let her, without protest, bear her own expenses. If, before entering the dining room, you had suggested taking her to lunch, she should have let you pay the check. On the contrary, if you merely found yourselves seated at the same table without any prearrangement, she should have insisted on paying her own check.

Tomorrow—Overworked Words and Expressions

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

You would have enjoyed being in my office last week.

I had advertised for a new secretary, and about twenty girls came in for interviews.

It was a most interesting experience.

Usually, as you know, women expect men to cater to them. They expect to be at the receiving end, while the man has to dish out the compliments and the flattery.

But this was different.

Nineteen of the twenty used about every wile available to "get your man".

There was the blonde queen, who came in all dressed in a silver-fox jacket, highly rouged and coiffured, who played the part of the young dubutante ready to go slumming.

There was the ambitious girl who said that her one desire was to be somebody, to amount to something, to work, work, work. All of which sounded fine, until she asked, too eagerly, whether she'd have to work on Saturdays.

Another applicant made an eloquent speech about how she had always wanted to get into my line of work, how that was her one ambition, and she hoped I'd make her dream come true. I changed the subject, and when I asked her a little later in the conversation whether she knew what kind of work I did, she hadn't the slightest idea.

One very aggressive young lady tried to give me the rush act. I'd have to decide that afternoon; three other people wanted her to go to work for them, but she thought she'd like me best.

Now I'll tell you whom I finally hired.

But first let me digress.

About fifteen years ago, we wanted a dog.

So we went down to the Bide-a-Wee society where they had a lot of dogs, foundlings, abandoned dogs, dogs whose owners couldn't keep them any longer, and what not.

When we came to the big kennel, fifty dogs of all kinds leaped up the wire fence, yapped, barked, and did everything to attract our attention. They wanted a home; they wanted to get out.

But way back in the corner, sat a little woolly mutt. She just looked at us with big, sad, brown eyes and very slowly wagged her tail. No sales talk, no fuss.

We took her home and loved her until the day she died. She was a swell little fellow.

And that's just the kind of a girl I hired.

No fuss, no fake, no furbelows.

She told her story, simply, honestly, in a respectful, but take-it-or-leave-it fashion.

She's working for me now.

I don't think I made a mistake.

What Noted People Say

WASHINGTON — Warren H. Atherton, national commander of the American Legion, in endorsing the proposed national service act: "One important resource has not been mobilized—civilian manpower. The men and the women on the high seas and at the front resent this . . . because it diminishes their chances of ever coming home alive."

NEW YORK—Wendell L. Willkie: "Beyond the precautions necessary to preserve our effective manpower and women power, and the individual structure by which they live, every other dollar in every income group, corporate and individual, must be taxed, and ruthlessly taxed, for the preservation of the American future."

CLEVELAND — Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians, in recommending that baseball "close shop" if it can't maintain high quality: "You can't fool the public by putting on minor league baseball. If we put on poor quality baseball, it will hurt the game."

NEW YORK—R. W. Gallagher, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey: "Finding good jobs which offer advancement to returning employees who have grown in experience and judgement as a result of serving in the fighting forces will be one of American industry's post-war problems."

Just Folks

MRS. AMATEUR MAGICIAN

'Tis well they cannot see ahead
Or few of us would women wed.
Could they behold what tortures lie
In wait for them as time goes by,
Than share man's lot, let come what may,
Most girls would rather single stay.
For who would choose to be for life
An amateur magicians' wife?

I'd think myself 'twere rather hard
To hear that pleading: "Take a card!
Don't let me see and put it back
And if you care to, mix the pack!
Day after day, night after night
Until he gets the trick just right.
And that severer time to know:
When he's preparing for a show.

That constant riffling of the pack
That ever changing red to black
I think would make a woman wish
His hobby had been tropic fish.
That egg within the little bag,
Those kerchiefs changed into a flag.
Imagine being condemned to view
Where'er they go a lifetime through!

Yet patient woman jogs along
And smiles at the admiring throng,
And smiles at him and lets him think
He changes water into ink.
And in a lemon finds the will
A marked and borrowed dollar bill.
Knowing he's fooled her from the start:
Her man is just a boy at heart.

Step Up Sub Warfare On Japanese Shipping
Philippines Will Soon Be Within Air Range
Believe Terehan Conference Not Successful

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—The Japanese have become more proficient at eluding and fighting off American submarines, but enemy sinkings are expected to continue at a rate harmful to their extended supply lines because more and more United States underseas craft are moving into the Pacific.

America has paid a small price for her successes against Jap shipping. About a dozen United States subs have been sunk or were reported missing while on war patrols in the Pacific. There is absolutely no truth in Jap claims that 160 American subs have been sunk to date.

American submarines, however, have blasted more than 500 Nipponese vessels of all types, including warships. While many are listed as damaged they can be classed as out of service for some time because of the damaging effects of torpedo explosions.

More than anything else this campaign against Jap shipping has slowed down the enemy's entire war effort. It keeps the Japs from sending reinforcements and supplies to their front lines and prevents them from exploiting fully the natural resources they seized after Pearl Harbor.

There is no indication that Japanese anti-submarine tactics will become a major menace in 1944 to the Allies.

More frequent and heavier air attacks against Japanese positions in the Netherlands East Indies are indicated. Some assaults already have been made by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen as far west as Java, but they have been at almost the extreme range of Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

Once the super-bomber—B-29—gets into action, sometime this year, according to Gen. H. H. Arnold, virtually all Jap positions in the Indies and Philippines will be within range.

Even without the giant planes, many of these positions will be within each reach of Liberators and Flying Fortresses as soon as the Japs are swept off the northern coast of New Guinea.

Also, as soon as Rabaul is knocked out and big bomber bases can be established on New Britain island, the big Jap base at Truk should come in for pulverizing assaults.

These attacks were just a dream a year ago. But the situation is different today. The Japs are displaying jitters over the promised assaults by warning their radio listeners that even Tokyo must be prepared for long-range bombing attacks.

As the Russian-Polish boundary dispute unfolds, diplomatic observers are becoming convinced that the recent conferences at Moscow and Teheran did not produce the complete success and sweeping agreements that the public had been led to believe.

Both the president and Secretary of State Cordell Hull stressed upon their respective returns to the United States following the parleys that "discussions" were held and agreements arrived at in principle in a manner far different than was the concern either of London and Washington.

The bare fact that the United States government consented to use (and was refused) its good offices in an attempt to bring the Russians and Poles together is a clear indication that the president and Hull see merit in Poland's contention that her pre-1939 boundaries should be restored—or at least some better compromise should be achieved.

Meanwhile, the disturbing news carried in the U. S. S. R. official organ Pravda of rumors of a separate British-German peace are seen as thinly-veiled Russian displeasure over United Nations "meddling" in what she considers to be an internal problem which is not to be the subject of international conferences.

It is apparent in Washington that the outcome of the Polish-Russian border dispute will have a direct bearing on the length of this war—whether Germany's satellites will fall away from the Nazi regime, or stick and fight to the bitter end.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THE INEVITABLE

I presume that Mr. Ickes' latest order made for the purpose of preserving gasoline for the Armed forces is of nation-wide application. It was an order commanding the distributors of gasoline to cut the supply of gasoline delivered to each station numbered among their customers twenty-five per cent. This followed an order cutting the gasoline supply for stations ten per cent, so that today all of the Pacific Coast stations, at least, have had their gasoline supply cut thirty-five per cent of their normal consumption for the month of December, 1943.

Business on the Pacific Coast, particularly, has been built around gasoline. The distance between cities is great and the highways have been beautifully built to assist business, as well as the motorist who drives for pleasure. But the business automobile—the truck, whether for hauling of ordinary merchandise, or war merchandise or the produce of great ranches stretching from British Columbia to Mexico, needs gasoline to keep going. On the contrary, the war in the Pacific is demanding an ever increasing quantity of gasoline for the war plane, the tank, the truck and the jeep. The result is that the motorist deserving gasoline to conduct his business has been given extra coupons for the extra mileage necessary to successfully carry on. But in order to obtain the gasoline to which his coupons entitle him, he must make arrangements with a station or with several stations to supply him from day to day and from week to week with his needs, and this has been done. The result is that the motorist who needs gasoline must be like the early bird looking for a worm, or he will be met by the station attendant with the usual answer: "No gas."

Now as far as essential needs are concerned, sixty-five percent of the gasoline available is probably sufficient to go around if the motorist would play the game fairly. Unfortunately, many do not. There are some who shop around from station to station, buying three gallons here and there, keeping their tanks filled at all times if they possess a "B" or a "C" book.

Theirs is not all essential driving. Certainly that which they do in going from station to station is not essential. Yet, they become angry if some strange dealer whom they never patronized before declines to sell them, trying to hold the few gallons he may have in his tank for his regular customers.

There are regulations which prohibit discrimination by dealers. There should be, if it were practicable, regulations which would prohibit discrimination by purchasers. Each dealer's quota of gasoline is based upon the volume of his business a few months ago, most of which was provided by his regular customers. Had it not been for them, he would have no gasoline at all today. Does it seem quite fair, then, for some roving motorist, who may have several gallons in his tank, to insist upon adherence to the non-discrimination rule by a dealer whom he never patronized before and probably never will again? By so doing, he may be depriving some motorist who is trying to abide by all the rules, engage only in essential driving and who looks to his regular dealer to supply him.

Many motorists are fair and reasonable, fortunately. But the few who seek to take advantage of the situation and obtain more than their rightful share of gasoline can make it difficult for all.

Millions Of Service Men Are Fighting And Buying

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4—Millions of our fighting men are not only waging a valiant battle against our enemies, but buying liberally of war bonds through payroll deductions and cash subscriptions to all war loans. In thousands of cases, service men and women are devoting a substantial part of their meagre pay to the purchase of war bonds, while the record of purchases by civilian employes of the military and naval establishments compares favorably with those of men and women engaged in private industry.

Current figures from the Army and Navy departments show war bond purchases in the services over $710,000,000.

As of November 30, 1943, the latest date for which figures are available, the cumulative purchases of Army enlisted and officer personnel under the payroll deduction plan exceeded $310,000,000, and currently are running at the rate of about $30,000,000 a month. Approximately 2,300,000 men and women in Army uniform are setting aside part of their pay each month for bond purchases. This does not include the outright purchases for cash made by either enlisted or officer personnel for which no accurate figures are available but which it is known has reached gigantic proportions.

Civilian employes of the Army have purchased a total of $188,377,000 in war bonds under the payroll deduction plan, with approximately 982,000 persons participating. Current payroll purchases by this group are running close to 18 million dollars a month, or an average of about $18.09 per person. In Savannah, Ga., civilian employes of the Army Service Forces have attained 100 per cent of enrollment under the plan, with deductions amounting to 18 per cent of the total payroll, with about 1000 persons participating.

The Navy reports that total war bond purchases of military and civilian personnel, including both those made through payroll deductions and for cash, have exceeded $400,000,000. About 1,000,000 men and women in uniform are now buying approximately $9,000,000 war bonds each month under the payroll deduction plan, and the number of men and women enrolled is currently increasing at the rate of about 100,000 a month.

Vandenberg Urges Gen. MacArthur As G.O.P. Candidate

Senator Urges Drafting Of General As Republican Party Nominee

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan came out strongly today in favor of drafting Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the United States.

He declared, in an article appearing in the current issue of Collier's Weekly, that he was for MacArthur "not only because I believe him to be the strongest candidate, but more important, because I believe he would make the strongest president in the tough days that lie ahead."

"MacArthur can only be nominated as the result of a pure draft (which no American can refuse, no matter what he says ahead of time)", Senator Vandenberg stated.

"It cannot come from any ordinary, preconvention, political methods. He can have no part in the campaign."

The Republican senator emphasized that he was speaking only for himself, and not for any organization. However, he said, there are apparently "thousands of kindred spirits up and down the land."

General MacArthur, he continued, is a composite of all the necessities we ask in our next president.

The first reason he cited for MacArthur's nomination is that "the American people will be thinking more about the election of a commander in chief next November than about the election of a president as such. President Roosevelt, he said, intends to run primarily as a commander in chief.

The senator's second reason is that the next president will be called upon to make "hard, harsh decisions every day of his administration when the time comes to put this country back on its post-war feet."

TO PLEAD NOT GUILTY

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, lecturer and author of "The Red Network", was enroute to Washington, D. C., today to plead not guilty next Monday to charges of plotting to set up a Nazi regime in the United States.

She was one of 30 indicted by a federal grand jury in Washington.

Her attorneys said they would argue a demurrer attacking her indictment as "vague, insufficient and unprovable".

Northern France Is Again Target Of Allied Bombers

Vast Formations Of Allied Planes Make Cross Channel Trips For Attacks

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Adolf Hitler's quaking European fortress rocked anew today when vast formations of Allied warplanes, again spearheaded by American B-17 Fortresses, struck at objectives in Germany and northern France.

An International News Service correspondent in the Folkstone region reported watching large flights of the huge Fortresses returning from the Calais area, flanked on all sides by fast-flying British Spitfire fighters.

An official statement meanwhile announced that "strong formations" of American heavy bombers, escorted by long-range fighters and supported by RAF and Allied craft, blasted targets in western Germany on the heels of night assaults on that section of the Reich by British raiders. The British planes carried out their third successive after-dark attack during last night.

The combined daylight raiding armadas required an hour and a half to pass over one point on the southwest coast of England.

Watchers at another point on that section of the coast reported that hundreds of American heavy bombers subsequently droned in "incessantly from France for several hours."

New Minister At First Pentecostal Church From Gary

REV. JAMES MENZIE

Rev. James Menzie will conduct his first service in New Castle on Sunday as the new pastor of the First Pentecostal church. Rev Menzie has come here from Gary, Indiana where he served for the past 17 years as pasto of the Gospel Tabernacle of that city.

For his initial sermon on Sunday morning at 10:45 he will preach on "Aventuring With Christ." Sunday evening at 7:30 his sermon topic will be "The Christ of Compassion."

The new minister and his wife have taken up residence at the First Pentecostal church parsonage, 408 Epworth street. They have one daughter, Marian, who is in school in Minneapolis at the North Central Bible Institute.

Rev. Menzie fills the pulpit left vacant when Rev. A. Newton Chase left in January to take up duties as district superintendent for churches under the Council of the Assemblies of God in Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Camp Reynolds Bond Sales Far Above Quota Set

GREENVILLE, Pa., Feb. 4.—At the half-way mark in the fourth war loan drive, Camp Reynolds civilian and military personnel have "more than equalled expectations," by purchasing $252,884.70 in war bonds since the start of the campaign, Brigadier Jesse A. Ladd, post commandant, announced today.

Quickly surpassing the original $100,000 goal, Camp Reynolds military personnel paid $159,167 cash for bonds, and signed payroll allotments for another $74,901.90. Civilian employees accounted for $15,815.80 in allotments, and $3,000 in cash purchases, to bring the total to $252,884.70.

Urging renewed efforts in the remaining days of the fourth war loan drive, General Ladd declared: "If we all pull together in the thirty days ahead, if we all buy that extra bond for cash in February, the $500,000 mark is more than a mere possibility. Let us strive together to make it a certainty."

State Quota Of Waste Paper Is Set For Month

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—(INS)—A February quota of 50,000 tons of waste paper was fixed today by the State Defense Council for Pennsylvania to relieve a "serious shortage" of paper containers used by the armed forces.

The council established goals for each of the state's 67 counties pointing out that waste paper was "the number one critical war salvage need." The January quota was 40,000 tons.

Local committees of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association will co-operate with the staffs of leading paper products manufacturers to help the state meet the quota.

Suggests Man Like Hull For Next President

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—The nomination of "a man like Secretary of State Cordell Hull" for president was suggested by former Secretary of War Harry Woodring as the only move which would satisfy all factions within the Democratic party.

Woodring made the statement in Chicago where he arrived to address the Executives Club today.

He attacked fourth term dreamers and asked that Roosevelt be denied the opportunity to run again but that the president be permitted to sit in on the peace conferences. Of his party, Woodring said:

"We are suffering defeat after defeat in elections. The Democratic party has lost 355 electorial votes since the last national election.

"There is too much disorganization and indecision within the party. We need a new leader of the type of Cordell Hull. President Roosevelt most definitely must not run a fourth time."

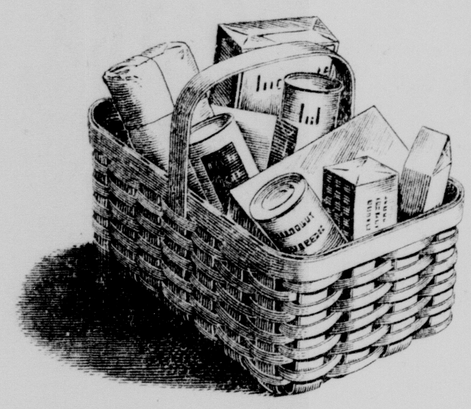

There is an "underground swell" of sentiment against a fourth term among patriotic Democrats, he said.

OUTLAWED BY COURT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The State Superior Court today outlawed common law marriages in Pennsylvania unless the parties involved obtain a marriage license in accordance with the act of May 17, 1939.

The latter measure, which requires medical certificates before a license is issued, cannot be circumvented by parties entering into an informal contract, the court ruled.

Widowed Mother Has Five Sons In Armed Service

SOMERSET, Pa., Feb. 4.—(INS)—A widowed mother has contributed five of her seven sons to the armed services, while the two others are employed as coal miners, jobs essential to national defense.

She is Mrs. James Reffner, who also has three daughters doing their bit to help win the war. One of her Christmas gifts to her fighting sons was a photograph of her living-room window, showing a service flag with five stars, decorated with a holly wreath and a lighted candle. The five boys are Roy, Robert, David, Howard and Charles.

Spring And Summer Fashions Display

Chicago Sees Preview Of What Milady Will Be Wearing In Few Months

By BEATRICE THRAPP
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—With glass baubles in her ears and plastic on her feet milady will step out this spring in just as bright, if not as voluminous, apparel as ever.

Exhibitors at the 25th and largest annual round-up of spring and summer fashions in Chicago offered buyers their stock in as great a plenty as in previous years. Only scarcity in pleats and folds indicated a material shortage.

Lilac will dot the avenue Easter Sunday, and accessories will accent the color in white, black and brown. If the lady prefers a color other than the popular lilac, she must choose a pastel in order to be in style. Black, however, is still in demand, exhibitors admitted.

For her handbag, she probably will choose a fabric or a fabric and leather combination. Only the fortunate will find a leather purse and if she searches for a zipper latch, she very likely will meet the cry:

"Zippers! They're out of this world."

In the handbag, which seems to grow bigger with each exhibit, the fashionable woman will carry a billfold. This she can find in fine leathers colored red, brown or green.

The Easter lapel will bear a brilliant studded flower spray to match gaudy ear rings—in any shape, size, material, color.

"If it's an ear ring, it's in style," costume jewelers advised.

Pearls have been given top billing by exhibitors to set off the new low cut oval or square necked dress. They come in aqua, pink, white, yellow and grey.

Hats indicate little more sanity that in previous years with flowers and more flowers the predominating decree. A band of velvet, straw or felt slipped over a fashionable "flat" hair dress, a posy clinging to the tip of each ear, and a hat is born.

A rosette, a ribbon bow, a feather—all are good. Fine, flexible straw will find its customary leading spot for spring. Ribbon hats and the beret are conservative, but popular.

The head covering has a new advantage this year, too. Miss Vogue need not stand in front of a mirror to see that her bonnet is straight. It can sit squarely on top, over one eye, to the left, right, or back, and it still is correct.

Woman Will Face Charge Of Murder

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Martha Ashcar, 38, a Syrian seamstress accused of killing Dr. Louis I. Schulman with a pistol for "mistreating" her, will be turned over to the coroner today on a charge of murder.

A statement, in which police said she confessed, was recorded on wax discs. She said the doctor gave her drugs after the alleged mistreatment, causing her "unbearable" pains.

New Cookbooks At Library Displayed

Books Suggest Menus For Part-Time Homemakers, For Ration-Point Troubled

In the display case at the public library a collection of cookbooks has been arranged by Miss Alice Sterling, librarian. The titles, illustrations and contents of the books, even thoes that are strictly ration-conscious, are enough to put renewed vim into the efforts of even the most 'stove-happy'.

Housewives who sigh and fret about "what to serve for dinner" can find inspiration here. Even those whose families don't like them to try new dishes may ferret out a few nuggets to leaven the monotony of having the same menus over and over.

Women who are "getting in their hand" again at cooking after having had a cook, who, as Saki has written, "was a good cook as cooks go, and as good cooks go, she went" will find encouragement here.

Below are listed a few of the newer and most popular cookbooks available at the library. But they are not all. Ask for suggestions at the reception desk.

Barber, Edith M.—Edith Barber's Cook Book.

Rombauer, Irma S.—The Joy of Cooking.

Newman, Clare, and Wiley, Bell—A Cook Book of Leftovers.

Brobeck, Florence—Cooking It In a Casserole.

Rector, George—Dining at Home With Rector.

Hill, Janet McKenzie—Cooking For Two.

Mills, Marjorie—Cooking On a Ration Book.

Allen, L. B.—Double-Quick Cooking For Part-Time Homemakers.

May Use Sleighs In Bond Campaign

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Old fashioned sleighs will be used for farm-to-farm canvassing in some Pennsylvania counties in the event of snow-choked roads during the 4th war loan drive.

Kenzie S. Bagshaw, of Hollidaysburg, Blair county, farmer and master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, is chairman of the agricultural advisory committee for Pennsylvania for the 4th War Loan.

CHARGES NOLLE PROSSED

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Two criminal indictments against Frank A. Dempsey, 64, involving $500,000 in alleged misappropriations from the Paul H. Hacke estate in 1938 and 1939 were nolle prossed today after a hearing before Judge Frank P. Patterson.

Dempsey, who was trustee of the estate, had surrendered all his possessions in an effort to make restitution, his counsel told the court.

Here's a point-easy dinner that's mighty easy to prepare. Everything you need for it is easy to get—your market is sure to have these foods on hand. And what a wonderful combination of fine flavors—bacon, sweet potatoes and apples! All favorites!

Ration-wise, this meal is a real bargain—takes so few meat points per person! Cook 2 unpeeled, medium sized sweet potatoes in boiling water until tender—then peel and slice in thick crosswise slices. Core 2 tart apples and slice in half inch slices. Place ½ lb. of sliced Star Bacon in cold frying pan. Fry slowly over low heat for 10 to 12 minutes, turning frequently and pouring off fat as it accumulates. When crisp but not brittle the bacon is done. Using some of the bacon drippings, fry the apples and slices of sweet potatoes. Serve as illustrated. Serves 4.

Two Sisters In Chicago Mystery Given Release

Investigation Of Murder Of Woman In Hotel Has Reached Impasse

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Investigation of the murder of Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, wealthy socialite and wife of a Washington diplomatic aide, reached an impasse today following the release of two sisters who had been questioned almost continuously two days and three nights.

They were freed on the order of first assistant state's attorney Wilbert F. Crowley who admitted the long grilling and repeated lie detector tests had failed to indicate the sisters had any guilty knowledge of the crime.

Ellen Bennett, plump red-head, was arrested for questioning because it was recalled she once had participated in a hold up and the further fact that she was a desk clerk at the Drake hotel where the murder was committed and had custody of the room keys.

Her sister, Mrs. Anna Valanis Minek was with her when officers arrived and she was taken also as a matter of routine. She too, had a police record having been acquitted on a murder charge at one time and convicted of a burglarly on another occasion.

Mrs. Williams was fatally shot by a lurking gunwoman when she returned to her Drake hotel room the evening of Jan. 19. The slayer also fired at Mrs. Williams' daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, but missed.

Investigators today returned to questioning other employes of the hotel, seeking to establish who took a duplicate key to Mrs. Williams' room from its box and returned it some time after the shooting.

Calls Uprising In Czechoslovakia

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—An open call to the people of occupied Czechoslovakia to rise against their Nazi oppressors was voiced Thursday by Eduard Benes, president of the exile Czech government, in a message to the state council of his homeland.

"With the Red army approaching our frontiers and a second front in sight, the resistance of the Czechoslovak people will turn into uncompromising revolt against the oppressor," he predicted.

Then he added:

"It must come to an uprising.

"I call upon our people to rise."

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin disclosed today that a special session of the legislature to liberalize Pennsylvania's military ballot requirements hinged today on congressional action on proposed soldiers' legislation.

"There is no use of me considering calling a special session of the legislature until we know what congress is going to do," he declared.

The chief executive said that one of the most difficult problems confronting election officials was the requirement covering registration of absentee voters.

"There is nobody in America who wants a soldier to have his vote more than I do," declared the former 28th division commander. He said a special committee has been studying the matter and will make definite recommendations as soon as congress acts.

Administration officials have been investigating the possibility of having the governor liberalize the state's absentee voting law, if that is found necessary, under the authority of the 1943-enacted war powers law.

Bergdoll Ends Prison Sentence

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the most notorious of World War I draft dodgers, was widely-known thirty years ago as a Philadelphia playboy who sought thrills by dare-devil piloting of planes and racing cars.

His exploits were financed by a fortune derived from a Quaker City brewery. Now fat and 50, he is the father of six children, all but the four-year-old youngest of which were born in Germany, where he wed while a fugitive.

His wife and children now live on a 260-acre farm, Harmony Hill, East Bradford township, near Downingtown, Pa. Bergdoll, is expected to take up life with them there.

Sought as a draft dodger, Bergdoll eluded capture until 1920. He was court-martialed and sentenced to five years in prison. He escaped and made his way to Canada and from there to Germany, where he remained until 1939 when he returned voluntarily to this country to serve the prison term which ended Thursday.

Plane Production Shows Increase

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Charles E. Wilson, chairman of the Aircraft Production Board, announced that the nation's output of combat planes during January exceeded scheduled expectations.

Wilson said that although the total number of planes produced in January was 8,789 compared to 8,302 in December, the weight of January airframe production rose 5.4 per cent from 85,700,000 to 90,000,000 pounds.

Wilson said the weight figures reflect a marked acceleration in the output of urgently needed combat types and that the results were particularly gratifying to the board.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4—(INS)—State Republican leaders have launched an unpublicized campaign to assure the selection of 70 delegates, and an equal number of alternates, who will "stay in line" at the national convention in Chicago June 26 . . . they want a solid bloc of delegates who will stick to one candidate when the balloting gets underway instead of being stampeded into another corner by boisterous convention followers . . . leaders well know of the dissension within the ranks of the state's delegates in 1940 prior to the convention at Philadelphia and the disastrous results when the group was unable to agree upon one man . . . the campaign is considered, in most political circles, aimed at forestalling any drive for delegates by Wendell Willkie, the party's standard bearer four years ago . . . convention delegates will be elected at the primary election April 25.

The Democrats are faced with no such problem . . . they have expressed determination to have President Roosevelt head the party's slate for the fourth time in the general election November 7 and consequently the rank and file have little desire to advance another candidate.

Republican leaders have heard speculation that U. S. Sen. James J. Davis may associate himself with the Wendell Willkie campaign for president and thus be the anti-organization candidate for another term in congress . . . Davis, elected to the upper chamber in 1930, broke with the regular organization about eight years ago and opposed Gov. Edward Martin in the 1942 primary election for the G. O. P. nomination . . . Willkie's campaign has been quietly launched in several western Pennsylvania counties and probably will spread throughout the state within the next fortnight . . . although the 1940 standardbearer has not formally announced his candidacy, all signs point to another attempt to capture the nomination . . . four years ago, Willkie received only nominal support from the Republican state committee.

The Pennsylvania state association of township supervisors has estimated that allocation of state funds for maintenance of rural roads during the 1944-45 biennium will be cut from approximately $94 a mile to $77 . . . "This makes it all the more important," the association stated, "that every township should receive credit for every mile of public road that they have on their system. Investigation has shown that a number of townships have slipped up on this matter and that they have and are responsible for quite a number of miles of township roads that are not shown on township maps."

Cassino Battle Scenes Revealed

Correspondent Tells Of Fighting In Outskirts Of Cassino, Italy

(Editor's note: International News Service war correspondent Graham Hovey, witness to the ferocious battle of Faid pass in Tunisia, today is viewing another terrific struggle of tanks and infantry at the front in Italy. In the following dispatch he describes the sorties of American advanced units into Cassino where Yank armor and infantry now are locked with the Germans in heavy-scale fighting.)

By GRAHAM HOVEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS OF THE FIFTH ARMY ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF CASSINO, ITALY, Feb. 4—A gruelling battle between American and German tanks and infantry is raging again today in the streets of the outskirts of Cassino.

The new assault by the Yanks got underway for possession of the enemy stronghold blocking the Via Casilina route to Rome after two previous thrusts to oust the Nazis had failed.

In advance of the fray now in progress four Yank tanks attempted to penetrate into the Nazi bastion Wednesday night. Another thrust was made Thursday morning by infantry.

The infantry sorties was led by a band headed by Lieut. John Murphy of Philadelphia and another Yank of Irish descent named Patrick.

Murphy said the assault by his party has just another rough job that they had to go. The objective was to clear out a block of houses where the Germans had dug in, in the northwest corner of Cassino.

"We had trouble getting around a huge swamp en route so we did not arrive in the city until daylight," Murpny said.

Germans Asleep

"We are lucky, though, apparently Jerry was not expecting anything because all the Germans were asleep, at a couple of outposts covering a gully through which we approached many gunners were asleep in bunkers built into the houses.

"In short order we had a batch of prisoners by working from building to building."

Murphy said it was difficult to see the bunkers because some were built into the rubble of gutted houses. Only the hole for the gun barrel gave the position away.

"We overlooked one the first time but spotted it while checking back," continued Murphy.

"My First Sergeant, Russell Patrick (of Stillwater, Minn.) went in to handle the matter personally while I covered him. He came out dragging one Jerry by the scruff of the neck, went back in and returned hauling another the same way."

Things moved nicely, Murphy said, until the Yanks started clearing out a church yard.

"The next thing we knew three tanks with Swastikas painted on the side were charging at us," he continued.

"We took cover but the tanks came right up to the buildings where we were and blasted through the windows with their big guns."

Then the Yanks had to fall back under crossfire but managed to get out with prisoners.

GERMANS MASS REINFORCEMENTS

Beachhead Front In Italy Is Being Shelled By Enemy Says Correspondent

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
Representing the Combined U. S. Press
(Distributed By I. N. S.)

THE FIFTH ARMY BEACHHEAD IN ITALY, Feb. 3—(Delayed)—The enemy continues to mass reinforcements along the beachhead perimeter as though preparing a counter-offensive, while at the same time he continues to shell the beachhead front, square by square, as though it were a checkerboard.

I toured the entire front today in a jeep, from the Cisterna sector to the Campoleone sector, where Allied troops have come within 20 miles of the outskirts of Rome by road and 18 and a half miles as the crow flies.

I myself, by crawling on my stomach from one foxhole to another, managed to reach a point 18 miles from Rome with front posts just a half mile ahead. Here the Germans were pouring in the heaviest shells they have yet used. But the enemy shelling did little damage, except to livestock that wanders upright in no-man's-land.

On the Cisterna front I found artillery duelling progressing intensely throughout the day.

From a church steeple in one of Mussolini's so-called model farm settlements I could see the whole panorama of war. In one place I saw an American tank having a duel with a German tank in the distance, both apparently met while out in no-man's-land on reconnaissance, but after 15 minutes, both withdrew.

After today's jeep tour I was convinced that we are dug in on this beachhead to stay and can cope with any efforts of the enemy to drive us into the sea.

Asserts Nation Near Limit Of Taxation Now

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Sen. Walter F. George (D) Ga., chairman of the senate finance committee, said today the nation has about reached the limit of taxation during the war unless it is ready to tap new sources of revenue.

With final congressional passage of a $2,315,800,000 tax measure—perhaps by Monday—the total federal, state and local tax bill, including amounts recovered by scaling down war contracts, will reach approximately fifty-nine billion dollars, George said.

"I believe we have reached the limit for the duration of the war unless we are prepared to go to new sources of revenue or adopt new methods," said George. "I can think of three possible methods of increasing taxes.

"We can levy a sales tax and get a considerable amount of money if we make the rate high enough.

"We can apply the principle of the corporation excess profits tax to individuals. But in that event we would have to couple it with a post-war credit to avoid inequities.

"We can also raise money by compulsory savings. This would, of course, be returned later."

George, who joined with other senate finance committee leaders in rejecting the treasury's ten and a half billion dollar tax bill and Wendell L. Willkie's proposal for a 16 to 20 billion dollar bill, predicted the federal deficit also will be cut by economy.

BRIEF NEWS OVER STATE

CONSHOHOCKEN — To a number of soldiers in Africa "Conshohocken" means letters from home. On the side of a jeep used as a mail truck is inscribed "here comes Conshohocken."

ERIE — A wicker basket triumphed over lead and steel when Carl Benz, an Erie high school janitor, used one to fight off two armed youths. He beat them over the head causing their shots to go wild.

AMBRIDGE — A Bible sent by Dorman Robinson, of Ambridge, to children of foreign lands two years ago recently brought a reply. A Puerto Rican girl who received it found his name on the fly leaf and wrote her thanks.

SCRANTON — The whispered words of a dying Polish woman were worth $17000 to two soldiers overseas. In her last utterances, Helvig Yerka directed that her estate be turned over to her nephews. It was the second oral will to be filed in the Lackawanna county court house in a decade.

DANVILLE — Evan Griffis, of Danville, a World War I veteran confined to a wheelchair, does more than his share in keeping up the morale of the armed forces. He writes between 25 and 30 letters to servicemen weekly.

PITTSBURGH — Sgt. Edgar Moore, of Pittsburgh, wrote home that he and his buddies spent one of their "most enjoyable Christmases" with 80 Sicilian war orphans. The Yanks gave the youngsters ice cream for which the little natives sang "You Are My Sunshine."

WINFIELD — Lt. Filbert Arbagost, an army flyer, of Winfield, experienced many hours in the air without mishap, but enroute home on leave he dozed at the wheel of his automobile, crashed into a bridge and landed in the hospital.

MEADVILLE — Robert Bates, 33-year-old Meadville newspaper editor who recently joined the navy, was welcomed at the naval procurement office in Pittsburgh by Robert Bates, 23, of Lansing, Mich., a second class yeoman. They are not related.

INDIANA — Pvt. Murray Calhoun, of Indiana county found a cook shack the most pleasant sight in Italy, for standing beside the makeshift army kitchen was his brother John whom he hadn't seen for more than a year.

BLUE BELL — Workmen blasting in a quarry of George Huber, near Blue Bell, discovered the remains of a crocodile-like beast believed to have lived two hundred million years ago. It was described as a clepsysaurus with 20-inch jaws and 53 teeth.

INSECTICIDES SCARCE

SIDNEY, O.—(INS)—Users of fungicides and insecticides were urged today by the Ohio Horticultural Services, Columbus, to order their supplies early. Manager V. H. Davis reported that the prospects of securing sufficient spray materials are uncertain. Some materials will be limited because of manpower, transportation and raw material shortages.

STOP-GO LIGHTS FOR DASHBOARDS POSTWAR DEVICE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—Stop-and-go lights on automobile dashboards supplemented by traffic "tones" will replace street traffic signals in postwar driving, Dr. O. H. Caldwell, electronics expert, predicted here.

Pedestrians would continue to be guided by street lights, like those in present use, and the two systems would be synchronized for orderly traffic movement, he believes.

A car equipped with the electronic device which provides dashboard signals and tones—a steady note to proceed, short, shrill notes to stop—already is being tested on New York streets, he told the Franklin Institute.

Radio wave cooking, which takes just 12 minutes to do a 10-pound roast, will make it possible for the hostess to begin cooking her meat while her guests are eating their soup, he asserted.

Dr. Caldwell described wireless cookery, used in his own home, which heats aluminum pans to cooking temperatures in 30 seconds by currents of thousands of amperes magnetically generated in the utensils.

Electric eyes which will switch lights on and off as they are needed, and personal radio telephones in the "average man's home", were other electronic marvels he envisioned.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Republican and Democratic slatemakers apparently intend by-passing Pennsylvania again when selecting the president and his running mate for the 1944 campaign . . . Not for 87 years has the Keystone state been the birthplace of a president while it has been 99 years since a vice president hailed from the commonwealth . . . In 1845, George M. Dallas, a Philadelphia Democrat, was the running mate for James K. Polk, of Tennessee . . . The only Pennsylvanian to occupy the White House was James Buchanan, of Cove Gap . . . A Democrat, he served from 1857 to 1861, preceding Abraham Lincoln's initial administration . . . He was one of the nation's few bachelor presidents.

The 23rd annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors will be held at Pittsburgh, February 8 and 9 . . . Postwar problems affecting highways and municipalities will occupy a major part of the agenda . . . Speakers will include Gov. Edward Martin, Secretary of Property and Supplies William S. Livengood, Jr., Secretary of Highways John U. Shroyer and Speaker of the House of Representatives Ira T. Fiss . . . Various township and county organizations will be represented.

Pennsylvania's sportsmen have become more forgetful in recent years, according to a report of the state game commission . . . In 1942, the last year for which a complete analysis is available, only 96.4 per cent of the 648,760 registered hunters filed game kill reports . . . Between 1937 and 1940, however, only one and a half per cent of the hunters failed to report kills to the commission . . . Failure to file results in a $2 penalty which is imposed by the commission after comparing reports with license applications.

Secretary of Highways John U. Shroyer has become the first member of Gov. Edward Martin's cabinet to win a citation from the chief executive for affecting governmental economies . . . The governor said Shroyer had halved telephone tolls, estimated at $9,000 a month prior to the reduction . . . Shroyer, a business man in private life, stopped the daily practice of departmental officials transacting routine business over a telephone when the matter was not pressing.

A disgruntled employer filing unemployment compensation taxes included a not complaining about the red tape accompanying completion of the report . . . His complaint was prompted by the new "experience rating" law giving reduced rates to employers experiencing few personnel changes . . . "I expected anything when Earle was governor and everything from that bunch in Washington," he wrote, "but when we elected a Republican governor (Martin) I thought they'd surely get some sense."

HEAR REPORT CROWDS IN RIOT IN BERLIN

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The German underground radio reported today that crowds rioted in Berlin shouting such slogans as "end the war" and "away with Hitler."

The broadcast, recorded by the London Daily Sketch, said leaflets were distributed during the demonstration. They urged workers to strike and, as a result, many workers left the city or refused an order to return to their jobs.

ON SWIMMING TEAM

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—Miss Nancy Rugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rugh, Walnut, New Castle, Pa., has qualified for membership on the freshman swimming team at Wilson college. She is now taking part in the series of five interclass meets as part of Wilson's Fitness for Victory campaign.

Miss Rugh prepared for college in the New Castle high school. She is a member of the freshman chorus at Wilson.

Caldwell Tells Of Local Folks

News Of New Castle And Lawrence County Colony In Florida Is Given

LARGE NUMBER IN SOUTH THIS WINTER

By JAMES P. CALDWELL
(Special News Correspondent)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 1.—Over twenty-two thousand winter visitors have registered at St. Petersburg this season. There are several thousand more in the city who have not registered. Most of them came by train, but there are hundreds of automobiles here from every state in the union, and thousands in the state of Florida. So far I haven't heard of anybody who shipped their cars in by freight.

Hotels are taxed to capacity, especially those centrally located, while apartments and rooming houses are well filled. There is a shortage of eating houses, due to lack of ration points and help. Some restaurants and cafterias have been unable to open, while others have been forced to close. It is a common sight to see long lines of empty stomachs waiting to get in. Prices are about the same as up north.

Here To See Son

Among the late arrivals from New Castle are Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hawkins of Moody avenue, who came down to see their son and daughter, Captain and Mrs. Thomas Thomas Hawkins. Capt. Hawkins, who has been stationed at McDill Flying Field, has been called overseas. He left on January 26th, for Utah, and did not know where he would be embarked. Mrs. Hawkins, with daughter, aged three months, will go to the home of Mrs. Hawkin's mother at Bradenton, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hawkins will go from here to Orlando.

Friends here were saddened by the death of Mrs. John H. Preston of Highland avenue. She had seemingly recovered from a slight stroke, suffered on her way down, but was again taken ill about two weeks ago. Her son, John C. Moore, who was summoned, secured specialists and did everything possible but without results. Mrs. Preston, who had stopped at the Floronton Hotel for several seasons, had made many new friends who, with her old ones, unite in sympathy for those bereaved.

Fike Has Recovered

Former coupcilman, P. K. Fike, who was laid up with hemorrhages of the nose, is now able to travel on his own power, although still weak from loss of blood. His nephew, P. R. Fike of Ellwood City, was here recently to visit him.

H. L. Allen, who spends his winters at his home here, has been ill, but is now able to be out.

Mrs. Margaret Woodworth, who has been employed as a government watcher on the gulf of Mexico, met with an accident, which will lay her up for some time. She is the daughter of Mrs. Moore, widow of Dr. Moore of the Wilmington road.

W. D. Walton, was laid up for several days with something like the flu, has recovered. His sister, Mrs. Jessie Mayne, and Mrs. Ella Jenkins, are with him.

Harry Preston is holding up his reputation as a shuffle board expert. There are now over 4000 members of the shuffle board club.

Miss Bess Miller, who with her sister, Mrs. Ella Risher, operated an apartment house last year while the soldiers were here, are back at their former places. Miss Miller is assistant manager at the Flori-de-Leon apartments, and Mrs. Risher is assistant manager and hostess at the Martha Washington hotel. They are sisters of the late Clarence Miller of Leasure avenue.

Member of Old Family

Mrs. W. H. Boyd of Pittsburgh, is one of the guests at the Martha Washington. She is a daughter of the late George Crawford of New Castle, known to many of the older residents, with a number of relatives among the Crawford connections in New Castle. Her father was the owner of Crawford lumber yard, destroyed many years ago in a spectacular fire. Mrs. Boyd's husband died some years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fenton are located near the shuffle boards this winter, where Mrs. Fenton spends much of her time. She says that she likes it better than housework.

P. G. Sherbondy, who used to be employed at the New Castle Notion house, is now proprietor of a large gas station here, and is doing quite well. He came here from Lakeland where he was manager of a chain store.

Mr. and Mrs. Knapper, former New Castle residents, have just bought property here and will make it their future home. Mr. Knapper operates a barber emporium here. The couple have two sons, one a doctor in the medical air corps at Puerto Rico.

In Business Here

Steve Kavaliks, who used to live on Long avenue, is now the owner of a curio store here on Central avenue.

David Lewis, who was called home, owing to the death of Mrs. Lewis has returned to St. Pete, and is employed at the Don-Ce-Sar hotel which has been turned into an army hospital. It is one of the largest and finest hotels, and is located on the gulf.

The Bushmans, formerly of New Castle, but later of Butler, are expecting to locate here permanently, having lived here the past year to test out the summer heat.

Llewelyn Preston, who upholds New Castle's reputation in musical circles, did not go home at all last summer. Says he wanted to get some of the fat fried out, so he would have more lung capacity.

Mrs. Laura Miller, widow of New Castle's late city engineer, Franklin F. Miller, who came here about a year ago, expects to remain permanently.

Mrs. Cottrell, former wife of city controller, Lyman C. Hughes, deceased, is located here permanently and is operating a restaurant.

Home Town Folks

Among the New Castle people who have registered this season are: Mrs. F. F. Urey, Mrs. Edith Mott, A. R. Mornes, Mrs. Thomas M. Moore, Albert S. Rowan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kirkwood, Mrs. Rebecca Chapman, Mrs. Carrie McClane, Mrs. Donald W. Ritchie, Mrs. Mary Wood, Mrs. Nancy Reinhard, Mrs. John Sechler, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Houk, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith, Alfred Vogan.

Present from Ellwood City, Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, Victor Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rubino; Volant, Mrs. R. B. Jordan; New Wilmington, Miss Emma J. Herriott; Bessemer, Joseph R. Martin Jr., Richard Smith; Enon, W. L. Lampus, Miss Bertha Lampus.

Fool Setting Hens

They have a new way of fooling setting hens down here that may be of interest to chicken fanciers. Anybody who has ever had experience with a setting hen knows that it is mighty hard to convince her to change her mind. Pou can put her under a bushel basket, baptise her in cold water, or tied her to sapling, but still she clucks.

If you give her eggs she will waste three weeks, hatching out her chicks, when she ough to be laying. Here's how to fool her. After she has clung to the nest for several days on china eggs, buy a few day old chicks, and gently slip them under her when she is sleeping. When she wakes up her motherhood instinct will assert itself, and she will at once scratch for her brood, and even the roosters will bow and call her "mama".

I would like to write you something about the green bench romances that appear to be getting ripe, but owing to the shortages of paper, I will merely add, that it is Leap Year, and you know what that means, even back in good old New Castle.

Dropped from 12,000 feet, a bomb will be traveling more than 700 miles an hour when it strikes the earth.

Land Buying Hinges On Soil Importance

By ROGER W. BABSON

Copyright—1944—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.

BABSON PARK, Mass., Feb. 4.—Without doubt land is one of the best hedges against inflation. Hence, it is reasonable that a land boom is now starting in the middle west. To such readers as are now tempted to buy agricultural land, I wish to say a word in my column this week. Land varies so much in productive qualities that it is foolish to talk about any price as "fair" for land. The price should depend upon what kind of men it produces.

BABSON

Insist On Highly Productive Land

To begin with there is the question of crop productivity. Some land in Nebraska, Kansas or Iowa is much cheaper at $200 per acre than other land in the Dakotas at $20 or even at $200 per acre. The quantity of corn, wheat or whatnot that any acre of land will raise on a ten-year average is the first step in determining a just price. Hence, before buying or selling land get the figures on what it has produced in the past. By all means avoid buying unproven raw land.

The second question to consider is what the land's location and climate are best suited to produce For instance, I have four tracts of land in mind in Florida which all look the same to a novice. Yet for one tract, suitable only for pasture, $15 per acre as a fair price; for another, suitable only for citrus, $40 per acre is a fair price; for another tract on the east coast, suitable for beans, $200 per acre is a fair price; while the best bargain of all is a tract in Sanford, Fla., at a price of $1,000 per acre, which is ideal for celery. Yet land may be highly productive and profitable commercially while the stuff which it raises may have very little nourishment. Hence, it will not raise strong families.

Have Soil Anaylzed For Minerals

For those readers who want not a commercial farm but a small sustenance farm for raising and feeding a good family of children, there is a third series of questions to consider. The farm should be within walking distance of schools, churches and stores, or else on a bus line; it should have drained fertile land, and it should have good neighbors. In addition, the land should contain the right minerals for making brains, brawn and character. All we are—except for our spiritual and physical heritage—comes from what we eat, drink and breathe. This means that the soil in which our food and fruit are raised is of great importance in determining our health, intelligence and character.

Why do the best trotting horses come from Kentucky? The answer is in the soil and this applies only to certain small sections. Why have the best brains grown in certain valleys of New England, New York state, Pennsylvania and Virginia? The answer is that the soils of these valleys—washed down during the centuries from rocky hills—contain the needed minerals to make the best brains. I have especially in mind potassium, phosphorus, iron, iodine, calcium and magnesium. If you doubt me, ask the publishers of "Who's Who" to give you their opinion on this subject.

This third factor of the mineral content of the soil, including the treatment of the soil, is now very seldom discussed. The Department of Agriculture has avoided reporting on it because it is a "hot potato loaded with dynamite". However, it is of prime importance to every family planning to live on the products of its own land. Furthermore, the time is coming when vegetables and fruits will be sold under the pure food and drug act according to their mineral content, whether sold fresh, canned or dehydrated. Some beans may be cheap at $10 per bushel, while other beans, which appear just the same, may be worth only $1.50 per bushel and good only to eat for bulkage. Hence, by all means consider this mineral content, needed for brains and character when buying land. If you cannot afford to consult a high class expert, go to the nearest graveyard, study the headstones and see how long the people lived.

Why Germany Is Hard To Lick

I pass on just one more thought for readers to ponder over. It is this: Some years ago I was in Switzerland making a study for the New York Times, a Swiss scientist said to me: "Europe will always have trouble with those Prussians. There is something in the soil of Prussia which grows people with that fighting instinct. European peace is unalterably linked up with the minerals of the soil. Permanent peace in Europe will come about only by systematically moving people about. That is the only way physical, economic and spiritual opportunities can be equalized."

Certainly there is a relation between soil and fatigue. For a scientific study of fatigue, send ten cents to the Medical Journal and Record Publishing Co., 667 Madison avenue, New York City, for Dr. Max B. Gerson's article published in the Medical Record of June, 1943.

P.S. Churchill believes in the importance of soil. This is why England will try to take Belgium, Holland and other Low Countries into the British commonwealth and is willing to leave Austria, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic states to Stalin.

Speaker Addresses Medical Society

Dr. John W. Fredette Of Pittsburgh Illustrates Talk With Motion Pictures

Members of the Lawrence County Medical society heard as their speaker Thursday evening Dr. John W. Fredette, assistant professor of surgery at the University of Pittsburgh Medical school.

The meeting was held in the coral room of The Castleton at 9 o'clock, and after short business, the speaker was introduced by Dr. J. P. Prioletti of the program committee.

Dr. Fredette chose as his subject of the evening "Manipulations After Injury," showing the various techniques of manipulations and exercises to be used in strengthening the muscles around joints. Dr. Fredette illustrated his talk with interesting technicolor motion pictures.

Following the meeting a delicious luncheon was enjoyed.

On Tuesday of this week 13 members of the Medical Society attended the staff meeting at Deshon General hospital, Butler, Pa. An interesting paper was given by Major Smith on penicillin, the speaker being introduced by Col. C. J. Gentzkow, commanding officer of the hospital. Refreshments were served afterwards.

The next regular meeting for the Medical Society will be on Thursday, March 2.

Don't Discredit Jap As Fighter

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Lieutenant Murray Shubin, 26-year-old flying ace from nearby Dormont, says it is a mistake to discredit the Japanese enemy as a fighter.

Shubin, who bagged 12 Jap planes and acquired an Australian bride on his first tour of duty on the Pacific battlefront, says American teamwork and flexibility are the main factors in American victories in the air. But, he insists, the little brown men are mean antagonists.

The Japs, he explains, seem to rely on individual initiative, often working singly instead of in co-ordinated elements, as the Americans are trained to do, and become easy prey for multiple fire-power.

Save 300,000 Gallons Of Gas

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Secretary of Highways John U. Shroyer disclosed today that approximately 300,000 gallons of gasoline were saved and departmental mileage reduced by more than 9,509,740 miles through wartime economies.

Shroyer said serious problems confronted vehicle maintenance repairmen by every effort was being made to "keep our equipment in the best possible condition under the circumstances."

New Zealand has recently made it obligatory on all drivers to signal their intention to turn to the right and to give way to all other traffic before making the turn.

O'Mahoney Named For Guffey's Place

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., was named chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee today, suceeding Sen. Joseph Guffey (D) Pa., who resigned after a long battle with southern senators, led by Sen. Harry Byrd (D) Va.

Disclosure of O'Mahoney's selection was made by Sen. Alben W. Barkley (D) Ky., senate majority leader in a letter to O'Mahoney.

"Your selection is satisfactory not only to the members who will be candidates for re-election this year but to the Democratic party generally," Barkley wrote.

"You will be at liberty to name the committee over which you will preside, and I shall take great pleasure in giving you whatever assistance and co-operation may lie within my power."

VACATIONLAND

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—Plans to develop a new colored sound motion picture telling the story of Pennsylvania as a vacationland were announced today by the State Department of Commerce. One picture produced three years ago has been shown to audiences in nearly all the states and during the past year has been widely used in army camps, USO centers and other places where Pennsylvania men and women in the armed services are stationed.

DAIRYMEN TO CONSIDER PRODUCTION PROBLEMS

The annual Lawrence County Dairy Day program will be held in the court house, New Castle, Wednesday, February 9, starting at 10 a. m., with the afternoon session starting at 1 o'clock.

The speakers will be R. H. Olmstead, dairy extension specialist and Fred W. Grau, agronomy specialist from the Pennsylvania State college.

Among the questions to be considered will be the advisability of organizing an Artificial Insemination Ring in Lawrence county.

All dairymen are urged to attend this meeting.

REPAIR HOME FURNISHINGS BEFORE SPRING RUSH COMES

Between now and the first of April, homemakers ought to take time to put their household furnishings, equipment and furniture into good condition. For the next two months, demands on time are likely to be less than during the rush of early spring.

Among the tasks that might well be done now is the repair of furniture. Chairs may be reseated and spring-filled cushions and sagging overstuffed furniture can be made as good as new. New finishes can be put on worn wooden furniture.

Household linens may be inventoried and mended when necessary. Old sheets and pillow cases will last longer if the seams are changed and thin places mended. Short sheets can be made longer by stitching good pieces of discarded ones across the ends. It takes less time to make a bed when the sheets are long enough to tuck in easily. Frayed blanket edges may be covered with fresh binding, stitched on either by hand or by machine.

Tables linens may be darned or patched to make them last longer. Those who dislike to see patches may applique pieces over the holes. Plan the design carefully for best results. Worn edges can be trimmed off and replaced with a damask hem.

Bath towels may be mended or made over into children's bibs, face cloths, or dish cloths. Holes or thin places in curtains may be darned keeping in mind the design so it will be ornamental as well as practical.

Some mending and repair jobs can be done with the neighbors. This not only makes the work more interesting but allows for an exchange of ideas.

As you put furnishings and equipment in order, clean the closets, drawers, and shelves were they are kept. Store bric-a-brac to reduce the time spent in dusting and turn over stacks of newspapers and magazines to salvage authorities.

MAKE PLANS FOR YOUR VEGETABLE GARDEN NOW

The farm vegetable garden will be an important source of food for the coming year. Plans should be made at the present time for this garden and the seed, fertilizer, and dust or spray materials should be ordered without delay.

Suitable varieties of most vegetables are available at dealers but the supply may run short before planting time, particularly of the better varieties. Planning now makes possible the planting with a minimum of wasted effort.

The application of manure to a garden will assist in obtaining better growth and early plowing will make possible the planting of cool weather crops. The garden can be the most valuable piece of ground on the farm if it is planted and cared for carefully.

EXPECT WHITE GRUBS WILL DAMAGE CROPS

Lawrence county farmers know that white grubs occur in destructive numbers periodically. Records kept by extension entomologists of the Pennsylvania State college since 1916 show that 1817 and every third year thereafter have been times of grub damage to crops.

In May, 1943, the adult beetles emerged from sodland where the insects had passed through the cycle of eggs, larve, and pupae for three years. These beetles deposited eggs by preference on timothy or bluegrass sod or in any ground which was in small grain the previous year and seeded to hay crops. The eggs hatched in three or four weeks after being laid but the grubs were too small during most of the year to cause noticeable damage from their feeding on grass roots.

As soon as spring opens this year these grubs will be ready to start feeding again. Corn, potatoes, and strawberries grown in fields that were in timothy or bluegrass sod in the spring of 1943 will be most susceptible to injury this year. Damage is likely to be heavy in the vicinity of wooded areas or other trees where the bettles found suitable food during the egg-laying period in the spring of 1943.

The extent of damage from white grubs this year cannot be estimated but it can be reduced. It is suggested that farmers avoid losses by planning their plantings so that corn and potatoes will not follow old sod especially in the places where damage is likely to be most severe.

MARKING MAKES DRESS EASY TO PUT TOGETHER

Time spent in marking a dress after cutting it out is well spent. The pieces can be basted together with greater accuracy.

As each section of the dress is cut, lay it aside with the pattern pinned to it until all pieces are cut. Mark center lines in front and back the full length of the garment either pressing or creasing lightly or marking with a basting thread. It seldom is necessary to mark seam lines as an allowance is made on the pattern. This can be measured with a cardboard gauge or small ruler while basting. Mark darts, tucks, and pleats. A tracing wheel will mark plain cottons and some rayons.

For dark rayons or smooth woolens, use a chalked thread for marking. Thread a needle with a short cotton thread, draw it over a piece of chalk, then make running stitches along the line to be marked, drawing the thread through the material. This will mark both thicknesses of the fabric at the same time. As the chalk shakes off easily, do the basting as soon as possible.

Tailor's tacks may be used for all markings where the pattern is perforated.

Rome Beachhead Develops Some Minor Clashes

(Editor's note: Clark Lee, International News Service war correspondent, accompanied American and British elements of the Fifth army when they surged ashore to establish bridgeheads south of Rome. In the following dispatch, Lee relates his observances in the fighting that followed, and hazards the belief that the action provided valuable experience for the forthcoming Allied invasion of western Europe.)

By CLARK LEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY ON THE BEACHHEAD SOUTH OF ROME, Feb. 1. — (Delayed) — The first battle of the Rome beachhead developed today into a series of violent but localized attacks and counter-attacks with neither side yet advancing appreciably from positions which it held ten days ago.

The Germans now have several divisions facing us but have not attempted any large scale attack, apparently hoping we will over-extend our lines and offer them the opportunity to cut off large groups.

Successful Maneuver

In the broad picture, despite our failure to advance, the landings seem to have been a successful maneuver in that they drew off some of the German forces from the Cassino front, paving the way for an eventual break-through by the main body of the Fifth army and a juncture with us here.

Our experience may serve also to dispel any ideas that when our invasion forces in England hit the continental beachheads, the Germans will automatically fold up and quit.

Here the Germans reacted quickly after their first surprise and have disposed their limited forces in such a manner as they believe able to contain the beachhead while, at the same time, holding the drive from the south.

The Germans now are neither disorganized nor demoralized. On the contrary, they are making a stubborn and skillful fight which, according to all indications, presages a long battle rather than a quick walk-over toward Rome.

In the meantime, we have a hedgehog here which we are confident the Germans can not crack, as it becomes stronger every day with troops and supplies pouring in unmolested by the Luftwaffe in more than 48 hours. Our troops are thrusting forward here and there, feeling out and knocking out German strongpoints, and generally improving our positions in the fine farmland which is criss-crossed by roads and an occasional irrigation canal.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

No. 27

DEPRECIATION (PART 1)

Among the deductions allowed in arriving at net income for Federal income tax purposes is depreciation. Depreciation may be sustained in connection with property giving rise to rental income shown in item 7 of return, Form 1040, or property used in business or profession, the net profit (or loss) from which is shown in item 8. The property must of course, be owed by the taxpayer.

As relates to Federal income taxes, depreciation is an allowance for exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in a trade or business, or of property held for the production of income. The purpose underlying allowances for depreciation is to permit the taxpayer to recover over the useful life of the property the capital sum invested therein. The terms "used in trade or business" or "held for the production of income" would include property held for such purposes though actually not in use during the taxable year. Depreciation deductions are not allowable on property used for personal purposes, such as a residence or its furnishings, or automobile or pleasure craft. However, if a taxpayer moves out of his house and rents it, it would become a rental property upon which a depreciation deduction would be allowable; or if a taxpayer used his car in part for business purposes, then a portion of the depreciation on the car, depending upon the relative use for business purposes, would be allowable.

A distinction must be made between depreciation and what may be called fluctuation in value. In the case of an automobile, it is commonly said that once a car has been driven from a dealer's showroom it becomes a second-hand car, and by that fact may lose a considerable amount of its value. However, only that part of the loss in value which is due to actual exhaustion, wear and tear in business use, during the year, may be deducted as depreciation.

A further requirement in determining depreciation is that the property must have a limited and determinable useful life in the trade or business. Land, for instance, upon which a building is erected, is not depreciable, since it has no determinable life, and in setting up depreciation on real estate, a segregation must be made between the cost or other basis for the land and the cost or other basis for the buildings.

The length of useful life of a property is often a difficult matter of estimation. The useful life of a building, or a machine, the furniture used in a physician's office, a lawyer's professional library, or a tractor on a farm, depends on particular circumstances, including the character of the property and the character of its use. A well-built brick building may have a useful life of 50 years and a frame house 25 years, a piece of machinery 5 to 10 years, but in particular instances the useful life may vary considerably.

In depreciation deductions, the amount claimed must be supported by the data called for in Schedule C(1) and C(2) on page 2 of the return Form 1040. This schedule requires a statement of the kind of property being depreciated, the date acquired, the cost or other basis used in computing depreciation, the depreciated value at the end of the year, the depreciation allowed or allowable in prior years, and the remaining cost or other basis to be recovered, as well as the estimated life used in accumulating depreciation and the estimated remaining life at the beginning of the year.

New Revelations Of Jap Barbarity

Woman Who Was Held Prisoner By Japs Tells Of Atrocities

HUSBAND ALSO BADLY MISTREATED

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—The Japanese, whose recently revealed cruelties to war prisoners in the Philippines shocked the world, have a streak of sadism in their nature, Miss Phyllis Argall of St. Louis, author of the book "My Life With The Enemy," said today.

Miss Argall is a first hand authority on Japanese cruelty. Her face was cut and bruised when she was slapped several times by an officer of the Japanese military police while held in a Tokyo prison. Her husband, W. R. Wills, a radio commentator and former owner of the English language newspaper, Japan News-Week, limps as the result of tortures inflicted in the same prison.

Miss Argall, who earned the unhappy distinction of being the first white woman ever tried and convicted of espionage by a Japanese court, suffered the horrors of solitary confinement in a Tokyo prison cell for six months. She escaped serving a sentence of eighteen months at hard labor by being repatriated on the exchange ship Gripsholm.

Indescribably Cruel

The author, who is 34, spoke feelingly in a rich contralto voice of the Japanese character in an interview at her apartment.

"The atrocities committed by the Japanese are sometimes attributed to an inferiority complex due to their size and color," she said. "I don't agree entirely with this theory. The Japanese were indescribably cruel to conquered Chinese. In fact they are cruel to one another."

"I believe, though that the brutality of the Japanese in Java, Malaya and the Philippines towards conquered whites, was a calculated practice, aimed at impressing the natives with their superiority.

"But the Japanese are trained from childhood to be tough. The male Japanese begins his military training in the early grade school classes and this continues through college. I have seen little Japanese boys struck viciously in the head by crown officers because they were out of line when drilling, or for some other minor mistake.

"At a school in which I taught an English class two youngsters committed the terrible crime of tossing a ball to each other while in line. They were taken in hand by a Japanese major who knocked their heads together and maltreated them for half an hour until I thought their skulls would crack."

Water Treatment

"When I was in Formosa the Japanese caught a Chinese who was accused of burglary. They submitted him to the water treatment. This consists of inserting a hose down the throat of the victim, filling him with water, laying him flat and then jumping on him.

Miss Argall, who managing-editor of her husband's newspaper and correspondent for periodicals in the United States and England at the time of the bombing of Pearl Harbor told how six Japanese gendarmes, whom she compared to Nazi Gestapo agents, came to her apartment on the day of the bombing, arrested her and took her in handcuffs to police headquarters.

"I was ordered to reveal how I had managed to get a certain story out of Japan," she related. "When I refused a Japanese officer struck me several times in the face. But the next day my face was swollen and I had bled from a bad cut.

"I was taken to a solitary confinement cell in the women's division of the prison. It was miserably cold. All of my finger nails and toe nails came out from frostbite. A blinding light lit the cell and this burned constantly. At night I was forced to sleep on my back with the light shining full in my face.

"I was fed unwashed seaweed and given rice water to drink.

"While one Japanese sat on one of my husband's hands, another forced matches under his fingernails and then the matches were lighted. They handcuffed his hands behind him and hung him by the handcuffs to a hook until his shoulder was dislocated. They made him kneel for hours on a stone floor, with his ankles crossed under him, bearing the full weight of his body. This resulted in an injury from which he still limps."

A PROUD RECORD

OXFORD, O.—Men and women sailors and marines studying at Miami university contributed $2,465 to navy relief. The total includes $667 profit from their "Navy Blues" show presented in Hamilton. They also purchased $12,500 in war bonds during the special Pearl Harbor day drive, exclusive of regular payday purchases of stamps and bonds.

Charge Draftee Listed Horse As His Dependent

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Two dependents—his wife and "Mary Ann Sheridan, female, born Sept. 12, 1941"—kept Edward Merlin Sheridan, automobile mechanic, out of the draft for nearly three years.

Then his draft board reclassified Sheridan and wired him to report to them. The mechanic wired back he had been called away on business but would try to report in 20 days.

The draft board asked the FBI to check on Sheridan and as a result the federal grand jury yesterday indicted him for making false statements to his draft board.

It seems that "Mary Ann Sheridan" was a female all right, and born on the date mentioned, but—she was a horse.

"She's a dependent, right enough," protested Sheridan. "Think of all the oats I have to buy her."

BATAAN DEAD'S KIN FLAY DELAY IN NEWS

PORT CLINTON, O., Feb. 4.—The kin of 32 Port Clinton men who fell to the Japanese on Bataan protested to President Roosevelt it was a "grievous error" to wait 21 months before disclosing Japanese atrocities on prisoners of war.

The message, which also went to Secretary of War Stimson, was signed by Mrs. Agnes Below, president of the Port Clinton Bataan Clan. The Bataan Clan is made up of parents, wives, sisters and brothers of the 32 soldiers, who were members of Company C, One Hundred Ninety-second Tank Battalion.

An old document records that a famous Greek host used to put on his gloves before a banquet, so that he could handle his meat comfortably while his guests were waiting for theirs to cool.

CHARGE MAN DROVE WHILE INTOXICATED

Police Captain Willis G. McMullen stated today that he would swear to an information today against one Joe Zajac, East Brook vicinity, in which Zajac would be charged with operating an auto while intoxicated. Zajac was arrested by Policeman Joseph A. Logan in Long avenue last night and was ordered held when Mayor John F. Haven conducted police court today.

HE MAY BE WALKING BUT NOT TOWARDS JAIL

LONDON O, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Somewhere between Omaha, Neb., and London, O.—maybe—there is plodding a weary hitch-hiker on his way back to an Ohio prison.

If so, he's not making very good time, because he started walking back to the London prison farm in September, when he was arrested in Omaha as an escapee. Ohio officials at the time were unable to send for him.

He is Ralph O. Schimpf, 26, of Newark, O., who was held in Omaha on a minor charge and then released when Ohio authorities failed to send for him. At the time, he told Omaha newsmen that he would "walk back and give myself up voluntarily as my contribution to the war effort."

Schimpf was sentenced to a one-to-20-year penitentiary term for auto-stealing in 1942, transferred to the London prison farm last January, and walked away from the honor camp of the latter intsitution on September 3. He was recaptured in Omaha a short time later.

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE

LEWISTOWN, Pa.—(INS)—David Hosteller, Reedsville youth, had a heavy slumber interrupted by a trip to Lewistown hospital. He was treated for lacerated hands and sent back home to bed. During the course of sleep-walking, he had gone through a window.

The first English Bible was printed in 1535.

ASSERT SWEDISH MISSIONARIES TO VISIT WAR PRISONS

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Five Swedish missionaries, delegates of the YMCA in Sweden, reportedly had the permission of Japanese military authorities today to visit British and American war prisoners camps in the Philippines.

The missionaries will report to Sweden by cable upon conclusion of their visit.

PASTORS DENOUNCE 'CHARITY' GAMBLING

COLUMBUS, Feb. 4.—The Ohio pastors' convention on Thursday called games of chance conducted in the name of charity "training schools" for delinquents and adopted unanimously a resolution demanding that Ohio's anti-gambling law apply alike to individuals and charitable and religious groups.

"These so-called games for charity are training schools whereby many adults as well as young people are first induced to risk money for the sake of unearned gain," the resolution asserted, "contributing to delinquency and crime and offering new avenues for profit by criminal elements.

"As Christian ministers we denounce all interest in such income for churches and institutions we represent."

STATE RANKS HIGH IN PRODUCTION OF 17 FARM CROPS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—In the production of farm crops in wartime Pennsylvania farmers in 1943, in spite of unfavorable weather and labor conditions, grew enough to win ranking among the ten leading states for seventeen different crops.

Pennsylvania production of cigar leaf tobacco ranked this state first among all states for that crop, according to tabulation by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service in the State Department of Agriculture. Wisconsin and Connecticut ranked second and third, respectively, and North Carolina was first in the production of all types of tobacco.

Farmers of this state harvested enough buckwheat to place second only to New York, with Michigan ranking third.

Pennsylvania in 1943 trailed only Vermont and New York in the production of maple sugar, and also ranked third in clover-timothy hay where Wisconsin was first and New York second in the Nation.

The state ranked fifth in the production of three farm crops in 1943—grapes, sour cherries, and maple syrup. Although production of apples and peaches was well below the state average last year, it was sufficient to rank Pennsylvania sixth for each among all the states. Two seventh places in crop production are awarded to Pennsylvania. That ranking was obtained for all tobacco and for sweet cherries.

In production of potatoes the Keystone state ranked eighth in 1943. Other high producing states for this important crop are, in order of rank, Maine, Idaho, New York, Minnesota, Michigan, North Dakota and Colorado. The state also ranked eighth in production of timothy seed and all cherries.

In the growing of all tame hay Pennsylvania stands in ninth place, and is tenth in all hay and in the production of pears.

There are lots of olive trees and vineyards. In closing, he says, "We have a little newspaper with all the war news and news from the states. I happened to read about all the strikes going on in the states and it burns a person up. If some of the strikers had just one day of combat, they would be willing to go back and work for almost nothing." Bell Official Gives Address

Tells Employes To Explain How War Has Affected Telephone Service

Good public relations for a corporation are the result of honest business management and a high grade, up to the minute product or service, Peter L. Schauble of Philadelphia, vice president in charge of public relations of the Bell Telephone company, told local telephone employees last night at The Castleton hotel.

They also result from "an organization of good people who have the know-how and the desire to produce a product or render a service which is pleasing to the buyer," he added.

At the present time, he said, war conditions sometimes make it impossible for the telephone company to provide all the service the public desires.

"Copper, lead, zinc, rubber and other materials out of which a telephone plant is built, are practically unavailable," he pointed out. "Sometimes we cannot make new connections immediately. There are delays on some telephone calls, particularly to war centers. Such things are not conducive to good public relations.

"But it is our job as telephone people to tell the facts which cause these things, so the public will understand. It is our experience that the public is cooperative when it understands the 'why' of these conditions."

Legion Of Honor Hears Siegfried

Bell Commercial Manager Tells About Interesting War Instruments

Charles E. Siegfried, commercial manager of the Bell Telephone Company, gave an interesting talk before the Legion of Honor, Thursday evening, in which he told about the part the telephone company is playing in helping to win the war.

His address was illustrated with slides, showing some of the devices in action.

One of the most amazing things is a range and direction finder which automatically figures out the height of approaching planes, and coordinates this for artillery in a range finder, which has already resulted in some amazing scores for American gunners against enemy planes, and perhaps tanks, ships, etc.

He also told how the Telephone Company, teaming up with the U. S. Signal Corps, laid a telephone line over several hundred miles of frozen wasteland in Alaska in eight days, at the request of army officials.

Plans were outlined for the annual patriotic dinner of the organization, which will take place on February 17, when Judge W. Walter Braham will speak on Lincoln. This will be followed by other entertainment, Chairman Chester C. Sweesy announced.

Million Dollar Repair Job Is Now Completed

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Railroad has recently completed a million-dollar repair job to the Quaker City's Broad Street station, which sustained damage estimated at $250,000 from a fire on September 12, 1943.

The repair bill was so much higher than the damage due to high material costs, fireproofing and premium wages paid to get the worst of the damage cleared away quickly.

Improvements consist of a varnish-bright information booth in the waiting room, a modernistic lunch counter, a baggage room with room in it, brassbound doors and a concourse skylight.

Engineers believe it would be impossible for the fire to recur because there is now an 18-inch firewall, built of bricks and concrete block, encircling the area beneath the tracks. The concourse floor, previously of timbers covered with asphalt, now is of concrete. Where corrugated tin roofing had been used, fireproof asbestos was substituted.

BAGWORM PEST MORE PREVALENT

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—What appears to be an increased number of bagworm sacs on ornamental trees in various parts of the state is reported by inspectors of the Bureau of Plant Industry in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

This insect pest seems to prefer such evergreens as spruce, juniper, and arborvitae, and such decidious trees as maples, black locust and fruit trees, according to Dr. T. J. L. Guyton, director of the bureau.

The bagworm gets its name from the bag-like shelter that it builds in which to live. These bags are the over-wintering stage and are easy to recognize. They are grayish dark, about one and a half to two inches long, tapered at each end. These bags are suspended from the smaller twigs of the infested tree. Inside of some are 200 or 300 eggs which will hatch in late spring. The worms that appear then will feed on the foliage of the tree on which they spent the winter.

Control of this insect is especially important on the evergreen trees, for once such trees are defoliated they will die, Dr. Guyton explains. Where only one or two rather small trees are infested, a good method of control is to remove and burn this over-wintering form, making certain that all bags are collected. The other method of control is to spray the trees some time in May, using one and a half pounds of lead arsenate in 50 gallons of water, or two level tablespoons to a gallon of water.

Iron Ring Of Jap Defenses Is Penetrated

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service Foreign Editor

America's first major penetration into the iron ring of island defenses guarding Japan approached its climax today.

With Japanese defenders of the Marshall islands sustaining casualties at a rate of 46 to 1 and losing hour by hour valuable territory that Emperor Hirohito ordered defended at all costs, the initial phases of this great counter-stroke against enemy aggression began to shape up as one of the most brilliant achievements in naval and military history.

All dispatches from correspondents who accompanied the gigantic American battle fleet deep into the heart of Japan's Pacific holding lent emphasis to the fact that the Allies have adopted a whole new doctrine to characterize their theory of attack.

"Too Much And Too Soon"

It might be summed up—from the enemy point of view—in the words "too much and too soon," a far cry from the "too little and too late" of former days. Rear Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner of Carmel, Cal., who led the amphibious forces, had this to say:

"May be we had too many men and too many ships for this job. But I prefer to do things that away. It saved many lives for us, and it should be a discouragement to Japs everywhere to know that when we hit we really hit hard and for keeps . . .

"Our gains are important and they haven't cost us much yet."

Advance elements of American forces battled the Nazis from house to house in the suburbs of Cassino. Gen. Sir Henry Maitland-Wilson reported "heavy fighting" as a determined drive was launched to eject the Germans from this garrison and clear a path for the long-awaited frontal attack on Rome.

Rommel Returns

A Reuter dispatch received in London reported that Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, who was trounced in North Africa and Sicily, had returned to the Italian front to take personal command of the German armies, a move that might foreshadow an attempted counter-assault or at least last-ditch defense.

Allied headquarters reported four separate Nazi counter-thrusts in the Nettuno-Anzio beachhead area, all of which were hurled back with heavy losses to the enemy. British troops operating on the Adriatic sector captured the coastal village of Torricella, while naval bombardment of enemy shore positions continued.

From Moscow came word of mounting German difficulties in the Cherkassy area of the Dnieper bend, where remnants of 10 Nazi divisions totalling 150,000 men were being cut to pieces by Soviet troops. The Germans attempted to reinforce their lines with supplies dropped by parachute. To the north, fall of the Estonian City of Narva to swiftly-advancing Russian forces was imminent.

Camp Reynolds Far Exceeds Quota

GREENVILLE, Pa., Feb. 4.—(INS)—Although only at the half-way mark in their fourth war loan drive campaign, civilian and military personnel at Camp Reynolds have surpassed the original goal by more than 250 per cent.

Military personnel paid $159,167 cash for bonds and signed payroll allotments for another $74,901.90, while civilian employes accounted for $15,815.80 in allotments and $3,000 in cash purchasers to bring the grand total to $252,884.70.

Push Payroll Bond Sales In Present Drive

One of the effective pieces of bond sales service rendered during this Fourth War Loan campaign is that of fostering pay roll deductions for war bonds. In this campaign this work has been in charge of the Life Underwriters of New Castle and the work is being done well.

The purpose of the Underwriters is to have every industrial employe not only subscribe to the pay roll deduction plan but also to purchase an additional bond.

The employes of the Standard Steel Spring company have set the pace in this respect. Every employe of the plant has purchased at least one additional bond.

United Engineering and Foundry employes have set their goal at $100,000 worth of bonds over and above pay roll deductions and the employes of the Aluminum company of America have set their goal at $82,000.

Additional bonds over pay roll deductions means "plus" business. The men who man the industries feel that their job doesn't stop at turning out war materials but that they have a personal responsibility which they are meeting in fine fashion.

Lawrence county is still under it's quota of bond purchases, especially in the savings bonds, the "E", "F" and "G" bonds. The campaign is coming into the three quarter stretch now with the home stretch not far away. The campaign closes on February 15th.

'Anyone Causing Strike Should Be Shot As Traitor'

Cleveland Industrialist Also Believes Administration Running Postwar Chances

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Bill Jack, the man who boasts he practices the "golden rule" in business, today declared that anyone who causes a strike should be "shot as a traitor".

"We've never had any labor trouble in our plant," the Cleveland industrialist stated. "Anyone who delays war production is a traitor... I don't care who that hits—labor or management."

He also believes that the Roosevelt administration is "ruining" the country's postwar possibilities. He cited his own company, Jack & Heintz, Inc., as an example of how taxes and renegotiations of war contracts would react.

He said his firm had planned to put all of its profits into a postwar reconversion fund which would provide wages and materials during a transition period.

"But when the government gets through with us, we won't have any profit," he stormed. "In fact, we'll be in the red.

"We believe it is industry's obligation to provide postwar employment for all of its employes and all of the men who have left its employment to enter the services.

"The government could allow you to keep so much profit each year to provide for postwar employment ...then there wouldn't be any glorified WPA's after the war.

"The administration, though, is ruining free enterprise. They've got a socialized form of government coming up in its place. And what can we do about it?"

Two Permanent Generals-Admirals Being Advocated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Legislation was introduced in congress today to create two permanent generals in the army and two permanent admirals in the navy.

As soon as the legislation is approved it was expected that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air forces, would be named to the new army posts.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, and Admiral William J. Leahy, personal chief of staff to the president, were expected to be named to the new navy posts.

Roosevelt Reveals Minor Operation

Tells Of Visit To Hospital For Removal Of 'Wen' From Back Of Head

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he has just undergone a very minor operation—the removal of a wen from the back of his head. The operation took place at Washington Naval hospital.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he had been very amused by rumors that he had been "under the knife." Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early, he said, came into his study this morning looking very worn and grumpy. The president said he asked "Steve" what was the matter and the secretary replied that he had been awakened three times in the middle of the night by telephone rumors that the president had had a serious operation.

The president laughingly said that for 20 years he had had a slight surface growth on the back of his head which he called a wen and that he had suddenly decided that he would have it removed. So, he continued, he drove out to the Naval hospital and had two surgeons with two very sharp knives remove it under a local anesthetic.

And, the president said, he then reached for a cigarette and drove back to the White House.

National Service Legislation Action Delayed In Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The senate military affairs committee delayed action today on national service legislation by authorizing a sweeping investigation of the manpower problem through an inquiry into cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts.

"At a time when congress is being asked to enact a labor draft for civilian manpower it is imperative that congress obtain the real facts on the manpower shortage," said Sen. Reynolds (D) N. C., chairman of the committee.

The proposed investigation of cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts is based on a resolution of Sen. Homer Ferguson (R) Mich., who declared that manpower is being wasted in war plants operating on this basis.

The proposed inquiry was approved by War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson, War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt and acting Secretary of the Treasury John L. Sullivan.

POSTWAR SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM FAVORED FOR STATE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania School Directors association was on record today as favoring a post-war school building program by the state after the war.

Concluding the 49th annual convention yesterday at the state capital, the school officials adopted a resolution requesting the General Assembly to support "an adequate school building program". They also favored state rather than federal administration of civilian rehabilitation programs after the war.

FIND $30,000 PAYROLL IN WRECKED AUTO

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The $30,000 payroll of the West Side Iron Works was found today in the wrecked escape car of four bandits, ten minutes after they held up a company messenger as he entered the offices of the firm.

Machine guns were found in the car which the bandits leaped into after holding up the messenger on his way back to the office from the bank with the weekly payroll for more than 600 employes.

The robbery occurred in broad daylight near the westside waterfront section of Greenwich Village. The messenger and a passing patrolman immediately pursued the men on foot.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—(INS)—A huge tractor-trailor truck laden with nearly 12 tons of steel for war plants upset today near the approach of Harrisburg's Walnut street bridge, injuring the driver, Claude C. Koontz, 43, of Cumberland, Md.

State Policeman J. B. Topley said the truck was transporting steel sheets from Vandergrift to Newark, N. J. Traffic was snarled for more than two hours. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1200.

Saturday Is Cleanup Day In Paper Drive

Saturday, February 5, is Cleanup Day for waste paper in New Castle and the adjoining townships. Under the chairmanship of Joseph Hartman, the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts of the city will attempt to gather in all waste paper, get it to box cars and get it rolling to a processing plant where it will be converted into pulp fibre for containers to ship war materials.

Trucks are being provided to haul the paper and the truck division is in charge of J. Fred Clarke. Mr. Clarke can still use some trucks and some drivers and any person desiring to help is asked to call him at 2756 this afternoon or tomorrow morning and at 1905 tonight.

Mr. Hartman said today that it was the intent of the scouts to gather in all paper Saturday afternoon and to clear out the receiving stations where paper has been stored since last Saturday. The cleanup will start at 1:30.

Citizens are asked to have their baled and bundled paper on the front porches where the scouts can get at it easily. It is hoped that a carload of paper can be gathered in through this method. All net proceeds from the sale of the paper will go to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts for use in camp activities.

Magazines should be bundled separately in bundles of 12 to 18 inches in heighth. Newspapers should be bundled and tied the same way. Cardboard boxes should be flattened out.

President Says Soldier Vote Bill Up To Congress

By WILLIAM THEIS
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—President Roosevelt again today placed full responsibility upon congress for enacting a comprehensive soldiers' vote bill which would permit America's fighting men all over the world to cast a ballot in next fall's election.

Mr. Roosevelt, at his news conference, declared that the soldiers' vote measure at this stage is the responsibility of congress—a responsibility for which members must answer to the people—and not the chief executive's responsibility.

He was asked if he cared to comment on the status of the soldiers' vote bill.

The house last night, by a roll-call vote of 328 to 69, rejected the president's original demands for a federal ballot for the armed forces and approved a measure placing control over soldiers voting in the hands of the states.

Mr. Roosevelt did not comment directly on action of the house but replied that at this time it is more up to congress than to me. The responsibility, at this time, is theirs and not mine, he asserted.

The house-approved measure headed for the senate, where an inevitable compromise is expected on the issue.

American Designer Is Award Winner

By JANE COCHRAN
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

Winners of the annual award, which is sponsored by Coty, Inc., were selected by a jury of 40 fashion editors of newspapers, magazines and syndicates.

Miss McCardell was presented with a $1,000 "G" war bond and the Ward's trophy, a bronze figure. Miss Victor received a $1,000 "E" bond, and Mr. and Mrs. Phelps a $500 "G" bond.

JOHN R. McLEAN MARRIED IN WEST

DURANT, Okla., Feb. 4.—(INS)—John Randolph McLean, 28-year-old son of Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, owner of the famous Hope Diamond, has married Mrs. Elizabeth Brooke Reeves, 27, of New York City, it was learned today.

The marriage, which occurred last Tuesday, passed unnoticed at the time because of the privacy of the ceremony and the fact that neither principal was known in Durant.

McLean is chairman of the board of the Southern Aircraft corporation, but his Dallas offices said he had not been seen there in "about a week." The bride is said to be the widow of a New York grocery store heir.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 4.—Accused of so badly beating Thomas W. Gault, principal of the Edenboorn schools, that his ear drum was affected, Mildred Gregg, 16, of Edenborn, is to be arraigned in juvenile court on complaints of the teacher.

Complaints have been received by officials that the pupil objected to being ordered back to her seat during a verbal argument with Gault and that she attacked him so viciously that the services of a physician were required. The man is said to have suffered several injuries with the one in his ear being the most serious. Officers say that Mildred, who weighs 160 pounds, used her fists in the assault.

Germans Fire On Medical Men Aiding Wounded

Correspondent Tells Of Attack On Italian Front By Nazi Forces

By ROBERT VERMILLION
Representing the Combined U. S. Press
(Distributed By U. N. S.)

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, On The Beachhead South Of Rome, Feb. 3.—(Delayed)—The men in F Company of the Combat Engineers know there really is no law in warfare international or otherwise—and that's all that saves this from being an atrocity story.

But there is a common law of humanity which even soldiers recognize that says you don't kill an unarmed medical man trying to save the life of a wounded buddy. The Germans did this the other day and in this company of combat engineers has been born a bitter hatred of the Germans and everything German.

Several American Sherman tanks were bogged down in the mud of this beachhead frontline and 45 men of F Company went out to protect the tanks against a force of Germans moving down a slope toward the Shermans. They went forward armed with carbines and one light machine-gun through high grass and over mudholes. Artillery and mortar fire from the Germans, observing their every move, caught them on a hillcrest and seven of them died there. Fifteen of the party were wounded and the patrol pulled back under covering fire from the tanks.

The lieutenant commanding the patrol was wounded and the staff sergeant, William Sloat, 26, of Great Neck, Long Island, N. Y., led the men back to safety. But one man stayed up there—the platoon medical man.

There on the hillcrest, in full view of the Germans, he bent over a wounded comrade. He turned his helmet so the bright Red Cross would face the Germans. As he bent over, a machine-gun blast almost split him in two, starting at his lower back and ripping up through his head.

Four soldiers and three medical men went back up the hill to try again to get the wounded. None of them were armed. The three medical men wore Red Cross armbands and helmets with bright red crosses on a white background.

The Germans let them evacuate two wounded men.

"Then they started niping at us," said Corp. Don Austin, "while we tried to pick up the others. I stood straight up and faced them and pointed at the Red Cross on my left arm. A bullet whistled past my ear and then machine-guns opened up. We had to go away."

One of the wounded men crawled back to his own line that night. When another patrol went up next morning only dead men were on the hillcrest.

NOT DISCRIMINATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Establishment of separate quotas of whites and Negroes for induction into the armed forces was upheld in a split decision today by the U. S. circuit court of appeals which ruled that it does not constitute discrimination.

In a case brought by Winfred William Lynn, a New York Negro, inducted into the army on Dec. 19, 1942, the majority opinion pointed out that the army's practice of segregating the two races has had judicial sanction since 1836.

Further, the majority opinion said, the New York City practice of separating quotas, based on racial proportions was permissible.

'Cop' Hears Dice And Raid Results

Patrolman Cubellis strolled through Long avenue early this morning, heard a sound as though dice were clicking against glass and within a few minutes Police Lieutenant Jones, Cubellis and other officers raided the poolroom allegedly operated by Ben McLaren, colored. McLaren was charged with being the proprietor of a "disorderly house" and six others with being visitors.

McLaren placed a cash bond of $25 for his appearance in police court. Ten dollars bail was deposited by each of the visitors. None appeared for a hearing before Mayor John F. Haven this morning.

Contrary to usual procedure, His Honor imposed a fine of $50, upon the asserted proprietor with the alternative of spending 50 days in the county jail. McLaren paid the $50 later.

Two Section 21 Games Tonight Crucial

Shenango At Bessemer, Mt. Jackson Vs. Wampum

'Cats, Jacks Can Upset Standing; Cementers And Indians Favored To Win

Class B basketball in Lawrence county reaches one of its high points tonight when Bessemer faces Shenango Township and Wampum clashes with Mt. Jackson in two important Section 21 engagements.

The contests easily could upset the league standing in such a way so that all four clubs will be running neck and neck.

Today, Bessemer holds a half game edge over Wampum's Indians while Mt. Jackson and Shenango are tied for the third slot with five and two.

Few 'Ifs'

Should the Mounties and Shenango win, Bessemer, Mt. Jackson and Shenango will be deadlocked for top honors. If Mt. Jackson cops and Shenango loses, the Jacks hop into second. If Shenango thumps Bessemer and Wampum finishes out front, Wampum moves into the leadership.

Shenango already owns a 30-26 verdict over the Cementers but hardly rates the call tonight because they're playing away from home and the Bessemerites are in the midst of a hot league streak. Since the Shenango loss, the red and black clad athletes have captured four consecutive "21" nods.

Coach Eddie Nahas' boys will have to check Forward Kresevich, currently the hottest scorer in the loop. In the last three frays, Kressie has pocketed 43 points and personally has kept the Cementers in the race. Donaldson, at the other forward has been playing a steady game.

In Wampum's new gymnasium the Indians try their one-handed shots against a robust Mt. Jackson five which recently extended the Wampumites before yielding a 42-33 decision. As close to invincible as possible on the home boards, the host team draws the ballot.

Victory Essential

Both teams must win to remain in the race. Since this is an impossibility, one of the foes will see its title chances fading as the race moves within the shadow of the finish tape.

Wampum is well on its way to another 1,000 points for the season. Last Tuesday's 116-28 victory over the Alumni pushed the Indians well ahead of their mark last season. The Hennonmen have bagged 48 markers in stringing 11 triumphs against three losses.

Mt. Jackson lines up with a won 10 and lost six mark.

Union Township high, fifth place team, journeys to New Wilmington to face last year's WPIAL B champs on Community House floor. The Scotland Laners nosed out the last place Greyhounds by a 22-18 count recently. Tonight's contest should be close with the Unionites finishing ahead.

East Brook high takes on a favored Zelienople quintet on the Brook floor in a non-league encounter.

Fair or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Sammy Angott, Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack, the best lightweights currently in the business, will engage in a pair of fights at Madison Square Garden during March and probably attract $200,000 worth of customers, in round numbers. In any kind of numbers it looks all right, and out of the two engagements finally will come an undisputed world champion. The whole program was arranged, signed and placed on file with the boxing commission in a three-hour wrangle.

Due to the fact that Beau Jack has been reclassified 1-A by his Augusta, Ga., draft board and expects to be called within two months, the shows orignally scheduled for May, were moved up into March.

With the encounters slated for 15 rounds, here is the way the long-standing 135-pound mixup will be solved to result in one undisputed wearer of the crown:

On March 3 Beau Jack meets Montgomery; if Beau Jack wins he will take on Angott March 24; if Montgomery wins Angott will be encountered by Montgomery on March 31.

All A Mix Up

The first fight will settle the New York commission title now held by Beau Jack. He lost it to Montgomery, then regained it and is committed to a third bout with the Philadelphian before going against Angott, the National Association champion, in the battle that most critics believe will result in Angott regaining the undisputed crown he held until he retired some months ago.

He holds three wins over Montgomery and boxed to a draw with Beau Jack last week despite a leg injury that forced cancellation of a bout with Lulu Costantino. Besides the leg injury Angott was about five pounds over his best weight, he said, due to his inability to get in his customary road work.

Before they begin tangling with each other here, each of the three lightweights will engage in one bout elsewhere, with Angott laying his NBA title on the line against one Juan Zurita at Los Angeles on March 6. Beau Jack will tackle Maxie Berger at Cleveland on February 15 and Montgomery will go against Al (Bummy) Davis at the Garden on February 18.

Manager Charlie Jones said he didn't know what would happen to Angott's title shot in New York if he were to lose to Zurita in the meantime.

Vessie To Defend High Jump Crown

Bill Vessie, the ex-Columbia high jump ace, now a Marine at Dartmouth, notified the A.A.U. today that he would defend his co-national A.A.U. high jump honors at the Garden on February 26 unless he was at sea.

Vessie does not know whether he will be shipped out before the meet is held, but he hopes to have a last fling at his favorite event before going abroad. Bill tied with Sergt. Joshua Williamson for the laurels at 6 feet 6 inches a year ago. Williamson is already entered for this season's games.

Franklin Faculty Tips Varsity, 30-28

Paul Cuba Leads Second Half Drive, Pockets Six Twin Plyers

Youth wasn't served yesterday afternoon on Franklin floor as the Faculty five handed the crack Ben Franklin varsity a 30-28 setback.

The schoolboys pushed ahead 5-4 and 16-12 by halftime but the teachers got their second wind in the third and pulled ahead, 22-18. Thereafter, the tutors displayed enough stuff to eke out a two-point triumph.

Penn State Millrose Relay Team Picked

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Track Coach George Harvey today named his Penn State team for the two-mile relay at the Millrose games, New York, on February 5. His quartet is composed of two civilians and two navy V-12 trainees.

Dennis Crimmins, who ran indoors last winter for the St. John's, Brooklyn, N. Y., relay team, and Hans Hermanies, former University of Cincinnati distance star, are the team's lend-lease members.

Johnny Dibeler of Philadelphia, captain of the Penn State track team last summer, and Phil Jones, Drexel Hill, are the civilian runners. Jones competed in track and cross-country ouring the past year.

Only other Lion entry in the New York event will be Marine Tubby Crawford, former Ohio university pole vaulter.

Hoppe-Cochran Meet Nears End

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The Willie Hoppe-Welker Cochran three-cushion billiard match neared its end today with Hoppe leading by the apparently safe margin of 95 points.

Hoppe took both of yesterday's blocks, the first, 50 to 35 in 45 innings, and the night game 50 to 41 in 32 innings. This left the New Yorker with an advantage of 400 points to 305.

They will conclude their Chicago exhibition tomorrow night.

STATE'S WRESTLERS IDLE THIS WEEK

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 4.—Penn State wrestlers will be idle this week as the result of Temple's cancellation. The Owls decided not to compete this year. Lion officials announced, however, that Muhlenberg had been added to the schedule. The Mules will oppose the Lions here March 4.

'Canes Are Hosts To Quips Tonight

Aliquippa Represented By Smooth Cagers; Clash Will Start At 8:15

Defeat stares New Castle high's basketballers in the face for the fourth consecutive time tonight when the 'Canes spread their zone defense against a clever Aliquippa high quint.

The Section 3 contest headlines the loop card and will be unfurled on George Washington junior high's boards starting at 8:15.

Aliquippa packs all the ingredients that go to make up a first rate club. Suder, whose uncle, Pete, plays with the Philadelphia Athletics, is one of the stars; so is Stoken.

Wallop Locals, 55-34

In the first New Castle-Aliquippa fray, the pair tallied 31 points as the valley club slammed the locals by a 55-34 count. The Quips are parked in first place with Ambridge, each sports four wins against a single loss, and must triumph to remain in the marathon.

New Castle can quit the cellar post by subduing the Quips besides shattering the three-game losing streak.

Coach Bridenbaugh probably will send the following lineup against the Quips:

Wimer and Andrews, forwards; Logan, center, and Bob Preston and Fisher, guards.

The locals try for their ninth victory of the season and second in Section 3. The 'Canes have dropped seven decisions.

In the preliminary game, New Castle's reserves tackle a team comprised of 1943 football aces. The tip-off goes up at 7.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Indications point to a S. R. O. crowd when members of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association meet Tuesday night, February 8 in Neshannock post, V.F.W. hall in East Washington street. In fact, it wouldn't be surprising were some verbal pyrotechnics to explode. Some of those keenly interested in fishing and hunting in Lawrence county propose to air their views and if they do and their stand is justified the results may be far-carrying. One of the affairs which will be discussed is the lack of rabbits during the past season. During a recent Old-Timers get-together here Robert Lamberton, vice president of State Game commission, explained no western rabbits would be brought in because of asserted disease and the shipping situation. He advocated trapping of bunnies and distribution in rural districts. According to what the writer was told yesterday, some persons were not satisfied with the explanation. Relative to fish they intend to air fish, too. One fisherman today reported he believes they should be more equitably stocked. It wouldn't be surprise were one or two surprise moves made when the meeting gets under way. The situation is one that deserves study. The writer is not expressing his opinions because he does not feel qualified to do so. His duty is to report. What is said and done February 8 will be chronicled. However, judging from what we've been told moves out of the ordinary may be taken February 8.

For the first time in some years there are beaver in Lawrence county, it having been reported by Game Protector Frank Coen that they are living in the headwaters of Taylor Run. They have built a dam there. Not many persons have seen them but at night they

Rip's 'Zephus Ball' Stirs Soldier Talk

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Pirate Rip Sewell's "zephus ball" or "blooper pitch" has been the talk of far-flung military camps, Frankie Frisch, manager of the Pittsburgh baseball club, discovered on a tour of the Aleutian Islands with other diamond notables.

Among others in the party were Stan Musial, Danny Litwhiler, Dixie Walker and Hank Borowy. Wherever they entertained the service men, the boys insisted that Frisch and others demonstrate the "blooper."

Borowicz, Pitzer Star; Fannins Win

Local Independent Aces Rout Youngstown Sheet & Tube Team, 50-34

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 4—Fannin's "Big Five," star-studded from the top of the lineup down, handed the Youngstown Sheet & Tube cagers a decisive 50-24 licking, last night on the Y. court here.

Howe's Six Goals Jar Hockey Mark

Leads Detroit Red Wings To 12-2 Victory Over New York Rangers

(International News Service)

There was only one game in the National Hockey League last night, but it brought about a new record for the books today.

Veteran Syd Howe rapped in six goals to set an individual single-game scoring mark as the Detroit Red Wings walloped the New York Rangers 12-2 in the Motor City stadium. The old record of five tallies in one game was marked up on December 18, 1929, by Pit Lepine, of the Montreal Canadiens.

O. P. A. Note:—One of the inquiries reaching this desk via phone conterns the exact height of Noble Jorgensen, Westminster's center and one of the loftiest flippers in the business. I dialed Mike Radock, Titan publicity tycoon, and asked him to measure the athlete, since the findings would determine a wager. So, today I'm able to report that "Jorgy," whose dad is the veteran trainer of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is six-feet eight-inches . . . .

Harold Burry, Westminster assistant coach, has been selected as one of the West Virginia scholastic tournament officials to be held at Wellsville, March 2, 3 and 4. Kenneth Heider, of Pittsburgh, has drawn the assignment with the ex-Ne-Ca-Hi track star . . . It is bruited about that New Castle's city police may enroll in the firearms class sponsored by the Sportsmen's Revolver club . . . Tech Sergeant Ralph "Ruffles" Johns has completed a 20-day furlough, his first serving overseas for 37 months, and has reported to Atlantic City . . . .

Oklahoma A. & M., conqueror of Westminster by a 41-39 count in an overtime fray, almost is certain of receiving a bit to appear in Madison Square Garden's Invitational tourney. The Titans, too, can draw a bid if they: (1) win all their remaining games; (2) make an impressive showing in their February 21 Garden date with Brooklyn college . . . My close friend Hugh Fullerton, Jr., of (AP) New York, pens a note in which he states that "Russ Baxter staged a crowd-pleasing bout at The Garden last Friday".

Coach Mever, DePaul university basketball coach, reports that his star, Center George Mikan, has grown a half inch since the start of the season. The pine tree-like dribbler is a little over 6 feet 9 inches tall.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

can be heard, Coen stated. The game protector warned that beaver is protected in Lawrence county. Several years ago there were some beavers in the Neshannock creek. Where they went to has proved a mystery.

When the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association meets on the night of February 8 there will be shown by George Bolinger, Jr., two kodachrome, sound pictures, captioned "The Topps for 40 Yards" and "More Marksmen for America."

Pennsylvania Game News, January edition, reports "only three per cent of all accidents experienced by persons engaged in sports or recreation are hunting accidents and only two per cent are fishing accidents, according to statistics compiled by the Travelers Insurance Company. Here are some of the statistics concerning the accidents: Polo 1-12 of 1 per cent; boxing 1-6 of 1 per cent; billiards and pool, 1-3 of 1 per cent; bicycling 1½ per cent; dancing 1½ per cent; football 1¾ per cent; athletic 2 1-3 per cent; theaters and churches 2 1-3 per cent; fishing 2¾ per cent; bowling 2¾ per cent; hunting 3½ per cent; wrestling 3¾ per cent; skating 3 2-3 per cent; basketball 3¾ per cent; gymnasium 3¾ per cent; outings 4¾ per cent; boating 5 1-3 per cent; horseback riding 6 per cent; winter sports 7½ per cent; swimming 7½ per cent; tennis and squash 7 2-3 per cent; golf 8 per cent; country and woods 8¾ per cent and baseball 11 per cent.

Approximately 30 foxes have been killed in Lawrence county this winter. Game Protector Frank Coen would appreciate the death of triple that many. The fox, characterized as vermin, is destroying small game which will not do any good for hunting next fall, hence his wish. The present snow, if it lasts, may help hunters. Fox sleep during the day and kill at night. Should a hunter track a fox he is apt to catch the animal sleeping and be able to dispatch it.

Several days ago Coen and some hunters crippled a fox. The chase lasted 10 miles. The fox holed up and they couldn't get to it. Coen and the fox hunters have been doing most of their hunting near the game refuge in Plaingrove township through which the fox roam. So far six gray and one red fox have been killed there.

He explained that the red fox belongs to the dog family and the gray fox to the cat family. They do not propagate to each other. The red fox has shorter legs than the gray fox. There is no bounty on a red fox but the pelt is worth $8 to $10. The bounty on a gray is $4.00. The pelt is worth $6. Absence of a bounty on a red foox is due to the high price paid for a skin.

The game protector was questioned about hunting fox on Sunday. The only fox hunting which would be permissable on Sunday would be if a land-owner gave a hunter permission to hunt on his land. Most fox hunting is done on Saturdays. One county fox hunter is reported to have bagged six or seven. The Mt. Jackson district has a lot of fox, according to reports.

SLIGHT CHANGES IN DAY'S MARKET

Drop Of Fractions In Some Stocks Recorded During Morning Trading

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The stock market dropped fractions to around a point today in quiet dealings. Rails, chief sufferers in yesterday's decline, continued lower, but losses generally were fractional.

Many issues showed signs of recovering at the opening, but this buying soon ran its course, and light but persistent selling soon depressed the entire list.

The widely moving American Distilling unstamped and Park & Tilford were features, the former off 4 points at one time, and the latter dropping more than 4. Other liquors were quiet with small price changes the rule.

Communications declined under leadership of Western Union A, off a point at one time, while Atchison, showing a similar loss, was one of the weakest of the rails. Following the lower trend with fractional losses were steels, motors, aviations, rail equipments and coppers.

Utilities were comparatively quiet with Engineers Public Service again dropping fractionally.

Garbage Collectors Will Get Overtime

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Pittsburgh's garbage collectors will not only receive their regular pay but will also get paid for two hours overtime daily to make up their wages for their 20-day strike.

When it is all figured out, the city's garbage men will lose their pay for only about three of the days they refused to make collections. Two of those days were Sundays.

City council agreed today to consider 12 days as the strikers' regular two weeks vacation with pay—along with two hours overtime pay for each of the 12 days.

WILLKIE IS CHOICE

MERCERSBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—(INS)—Wendell Willkie was the choice today of Mercersburg Academy students for President.

A poll disclosed that 34 per cent of those voting preferred the 1940 Republican Presidential nominee. President Roosevelt was runner-up with 28 per cent of the votes. Governor Dewey, Governor Bricker, MacArthur and General Marshall were next in order.

The poll also revealed that 93 per cent of the students opposed a policy of post-war isolation.

HEN HOPS A FREIGHT

GLENNS FERRY, Idaho—(INS)—A little red hen decided she was tired of the same old surroundings. So she hopped on the brake beam of a box car, riding 100 miles from Nampa to Glenns Ferry. The stowaway roosted on the rods the entire trip.

Junipero Serra, the monk chosen by the Spanish government to establish missions in California, entered the bay of San Diego in the early summer of 1769. The country was an unexplored wilderness.

Fooled Nazi Flyer

LIEUT. ROBERT W. STEVENS, St. Louis, came up with something new in aerial warfare while escorting Flying Fortresses on a raid over Nazi Europe. Seeing a Nazi ME-109 closing in to the "box" of bombers, Stephens, with only three rounds of ammunition left, closed in on the enemy fighter, trapping him between the Forts and other fighter planes. In an attempt to get out of the trap, the Nazi flier slowed down, and moved directly into the line of fire from another plane and was shot down. (International)

"Abandon Ship" in Record Time

U. S. Navy Photograph

Time is precious when sailors abandon ship. U. S. Navy crews practice climbing down cargo nets to life rafts, competing for the fastest records. Their speed can save lives. CAMERA CATCHES FORTRESS SAGA

THIS REMARKABLE picture of a damaged Flying Fortress making a run for its British base was snapped accidentally when one of the planes in the formation, under which the crippled ship had taken shelter, opened its bomb doors preparing to release its missiles—and "snap!" went the recording camera and took the photo. Quite as remarkable as the incident was the fact that the sturdy air craft, despite the damage shown, made its high altitude run and got back safely. (International)

PORTLAND RESIDENTS GROW WINDOW BOX CROP

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Many of the cartoon deriding the conscientious city-dweller carefully cultivating a Victory garden in a window box high above city traffic.

Cartoons or no cartoons dwellers in the grimy piles of masonry where Portland gloried half a century ago are ready to harvest the fruits of their labor right in the heart of the city.

Tomatoes carefully tended in boxes of loam in a second story flat are ready for the eating. Bean stalks stretching upward along a supporting pole stuck in a pot of earth climb higher than the fourth story of the Merchants Hotel, once a Japanese institution.

The prize garden waves elegantly in the smoky breeze from the fourth floor of the once grand Kamm building on First Avenue. There amid pigeons instead of the farmyard hen, onions flaunt their sturdiness among tomato plants whose large red fruits defy any gardener with a spacious back yard or half-acre to do better.

Labels on English mustard cans give directions for using the hot stuff in the bath, besides cooking directions.

U. S. Seeks To Aid Poland

Aims At Persuading Russia To Refrain From Setting Up Puppet Regime

SOVIET ARMIES ARE ADVANCING FURTHER

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(INS)—The United States government was intensifying its diplomatic efforts today to patch up the Russo-Polish boundary dispute as the Soviet armies made sweeping gains well inside the old borders of Poland.

Despite Moscow's recent rejection of the American offer to help initiate a resumption of relations between the Soviet and Polish governments, active diplomatic discussions are underway concerning the problem.

Against Puppet Regime

The American government's immediate objective is to persuade Russia to refrain from setting up a puppet regime in Poland.

It is being made clear to Moscow that any such move would constitute a serious blow to the principles of the Moscow pact. It also is being pointed out that the Nazi propaganda machine would seize upon such a development as evidence of its contention that the choice in Europe is between German National Socialism and Bolshevism.

The diplomatic discussions are underway in Moscow as well as in Washington and London. In rejecting the recent American offer of good offices, the Soviet government did not close the door to further discussion of the problem, and Moscow is giving an attentive ear to Washington's views as outlined by American Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Seek Free Poland

Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his associates also have been giving active consideration to the views of the Polish refugee government in London. The Poles would like the United States as well as Great Britain to guarantee any settlement which a free Poland might make with Russia.

The Poles further would like some expression of opinion from the American government concerning its attitude toward the possibility of Poland acquiring East Prussia and other German territory as compensation for the probable loss to Russia of most of its prewar eastern territories.

The possibility of a change in the Polish government to remove those members considered particularly objectionable by Moscow also has been the subject of discussion. According to one report current in diplomatic circles, Moscow would like to have two or three members of the pro-Soviet Union of Polish Patriots organization included in the Polish government in London.
